TEHRAN MOBS DANCE FOR JOY

Weeping Shah Quits Iran

Times News Services

TEHRAN — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, rejected by his people and defeated by 14 months of violence that brought his country close to anarchy, flew weeping to Egypt today on his way to the United States and probable permanent exile.

Other protesters roped the figure of the shah's father, Reza Shah, mounted on a horse in a downtown square and hauled it off its pedestal.

The shah's arch foe, the Moslem religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said he would return to Iran from his Paris exile and lead a government to supplant the administration of Premier Shahpour Bakhtiar.

Observers said such a move could lead to new chaos.

In Paris, Khomeini greeted news of the shah's departure with the Islamic rallying cry, "God is great," and said the shah must now abdicate.

"This is a great victory for the Iranian people," he told a packed news conference at his villa in Neauphle-le-Chateau near Paris. "It is the first step in ending 50 years of tyranny and brutality by the Pahlavi dynasty.

"Final victory will come only with the abdication of the dynasty and, even more important, the end of foreign domination."

The 78-year-old leader of the Shiite Moslems of Iran who has lived 15 years in exile, said, "I shall return at the opportune moment."

His aides said Khomeini will remain in France at least until the end of this week.

He also said his government would seize the shah's fortune at home and abroad.

SEVERE QUAKE ROCKS IRAN

United Press International

A severe earthquake rocked northern Iran today, earth monitoring stations around the world reported. There were no immediate damage or casualty reports, but scientists said the jolt could have had serious consequences.

The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said preliminary data indicated the tremor was centred about 60 miles south of Mashhad — an earthquake zone near the point where Iran, Afghanistan and the Soviet Union meet.

The U.S. Geological Survey and earthquake centres in Honolulu and Sweden reported the shock was measured at 6.7 to 6.8 on the open-ended Richter scale. It hit at 1:50 a.m. PST, early afternoon in Iran.

Any quake above magnitude 6.0 is considered capable of causing severe damage.

"It was strong enough to cause damage," a geophysicist in Colorado said. "The area is populated and there are chances of injury."

GIBSON JOINS PM AS KEY AIDE

Gibson joins Trudeau's campaign director, Sen. Keith Davey, and Jim Coutts, Trudeau's principal secretary.

The former North Vancouver-Capilano MLA will be responsible for liaison between the prime minister and the Liberal party, with responsibility to enhance the relationship between Trudeau and the membership.

Gibson's responsibilities are to prepare the party in the pre-election stage. His job ends the day the election writ is dropped, at which time he will be come a federal candidate himself.

GVLRA Rift As CUPE Talks Heat

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

Greater Victoria school board chairman Carol Pickup said today she would like the board to pull out of the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association unless GVLRA manager Carl Anshelm adopts a more positive attitude.

Pickup issued the withdrawal threat as she hammered the GVLRA for being too "abrasive and negative" in its approach to collective bargaining.

Her attack came as the municipal bargaining climate began to heat up with Anshelm applying for a mediator in the GVLRA's contract dispute with a joint bargaining committee, representing five locals of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

Anshelm said the locals are stalling but the charge was flung back at him by another CUPE local, which bargains independently.

Rick Doyle, president of Local 388, representing city inside workers, said today Anshelm is the one who is stalling. Doyle said he will recommend to an executive meeting Wednesday that they apply for a mediator.

Pickup said the GVLRA's approach to collective bargaining is unsatisfactory.

"It's a total anti-union, very abrasive, very negative kind of approach," she said.

She said in her opinion, the school board is not getting good value for the money it costs to belong to the association.

The board cannot opt out of the association during negotiations but she said she would support a motion to do so once a new contract has been ratified.

Pickup said she favors local bargaining where the employer deals directly with the employees rather than negotiate through an independent agency.

6 Starving Horses Perish from Cold

Times News Services

A deep-freeze continues to hold much of B.C. in its grip, sending Monday temperatures to record-tying lows in Prince George, freezing out the water supply in Lytton and claiming the lives of six horses left to starve by residents and unlicensed guides in the Cassiar area.

Provincial conservation officer Brock Bailey said in Cassiar Monday at least 40 more horses are starving after being abandoned in cold weather that sent the thermometer skidding to -37 degrees celsius. He was unable to identify owners because the horses are not branded.

The temperature in Prince George dipped to -41 Sunday, tying a 1953 record and forcing cancellation of snowmobile and sled dog races. Two ski hills closed.

Heating problems closed several schools but none of the closures has lasted more than a day, a spokesman said.

A number of mills have been operating on a shift-by-shift basis and telling workers not to come in when it gets too cold.

A warming trend is expected to raise the temperature to a high of -20 today or Wednesday.

About 1,500 resident of the Fraser Canyon community of Lytton were left without water when a line between two reservoirs froze up. Work crews today had thawed about half the line between a 100,000-gallon reservoir and a smaller one 600 metres away.

Water has been hauled from Lytton Creek to the smaller reservoir, but the water pressure is down to 40 pounds an inch from the usual 100 pounds an inch.

Mail Poser In Puzzle

Postmarked New York, Dec. 28, the answers to the Prevue section pre-New Year's Payoff Puzzle was delivered in Victoria today, Jan. 16. Even allowing for the New Year's festivities, that's not great service.

In any event, there was no winner in that contest which means last weekend's Prevue puzzle was worth $150. A new puzzle and last weekend's answer will be found in Prevue published with this coming Friday's Times.

Blizzard Death Toll Climbing

Times News Services

More storms were predicted today as the midwestern United States struggled to cope with hip-deep snow that threatened to disrupt fuel and food supplies.

The storm-related death toll climbed to at least 53. Seventeen deaths have been reported in Chicago, where 10 centimetres of fresh snow fell Monday on the 50 centimetres that strangled the second-largest city in the U.S. on the weekend.

About 600 travellers were stranded at Toronto International Airport Monday after airlines cancelled flights because of the massive U.S. snowstorms.

Most of Chicago's O'Hare Airport, the continent's busiest, remained closed Monday, stranding thousands. Work crews managed to clear one runway and hoped to have a second cleared today.

A storm which moved across Ontario dumping snow and freezing rain on southern and central regions resulted in at least one death.

U.S. weather officials warned there would be at least 10 centimetres more snow to contend with in Chicago today.

POST OFFICE LOUSES LOTO

TORONTO (CP) — The United States post office has clamped down on a disabled California truck driver who wants to buy Loto Canada tickets.

Jay Nagy, 55, of Bellflower, Calif., says he is looking for a Canadian agent to buy the tickets and send them to him in a plain brown envelope.

Nagy said he's been buying lottery tickets for years — 10 tickets a draw at $10 a ticket.

Until last week, that is, when Loto Canada returned his money order with a notice saying the U.S. post office would no longer allow the transactions.

He's had no problem with The Provincial lottery in Manitoba, on which he spends up to $50 a draw.

"They have a plain envelope with a box number on it," he said. "Loto Canada has a beautiful envelope, with big red letters. And that's what the U.S. is screaming about."

A spokesman for the U.S. post office said Monday it is against the law to send lottery material through the mail, even in states where lotteries are legal. They are not legal in California.

A Loto Canada spokesman said the lottery stopped responding to U.S. orders about a month ago "because the Canadian post office got in touch with us.

"There's an international postal convention under which countries help each other on undesired mail."

The spokesman said about $1.5 million worth of Loto Canada tickets are sold in the U.S. annually — a figure he doesn't expect will change much because "many sellers up here who are engaged in foreign sales already put the tickets in plain brown envelopes."

Joe Nearly Bayonetted

GOLAN HEIGHTS, Israel (CP) — Opposition Leader Joe Clark, inspecting a 12-man guard of honor on the lonely Golan Heights on today, collided with a Canadian soldier and nearly cut his head on a rifle bayonet.

Embarrassed, Clark explained later that he had never inspected an honor guard before.

"I'm sorry, I apologize," he said.

"I should have stayed in line."

It had never happened before, he said. "But it could happen to anyone I guess."

On his arrival at Camp Zouani, where 125 Canadian soldiers work to keep Israeli and Syrian forces apart, Clark was greeted by two rows of beret-topped United Nations troops lined up as an honor guard—seven men in the front, five in the back.

Clark moved slowly down the front rank, looking each soldier in the eye and pausing once to speak.

FLQers To Trial

Times News Services

MONTREAL — Jacques and Louise Cossette-Trudel waived their right to a preliminary hearing today on charges of kidnapping former British trade commissioner James Cross in October, 1970.

The were sent directly to trial, although a date will not be fixed until March.

The decision to go straight to trial came after more than two hours of private talks between defence lawyer Serge Menard and Crown prosecutor Jean-Pierre Bonin, who summarized the prosecution's evidence for Menard.

Win For Minister

Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm was today awarded $3,500 damages and costs in his libel action against Times Publishers, a division of FP Publications (Western) Ltd., former Victoria Times publisher Stuart Underhill, editor Barbara McLintock and cartoonist Robert Bierman.

The judgment by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe followed a three-day B.C. Supreme Court trial last week in which Vander Zalm claimed he was libelled by a Bierman cartoon in the June 22 edition of the newspaper.

The reasons for Munroe's findings were not immediately known because copies of his judgment were not available in Victoria.

During the trial the Times said the cartoon was not defamatory but, if it were, then it was fair comment on a matter of public interest. Vander Zalm was minister of human resources at the time.

Logging Ban Precedent Set

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Fisheries and Environment Canada has slapped a permanent logging ban on a Queen Charlotte Islands watershed because of fear that cutting could cause slides or severe erosion.

It is the first time that logging has ever been halted for that reason in the Charlottes.

Although the area involved is relatively small, about 50 acres, the ban is seen as a precedent-setting move.

Large areas of the Queen Charlotte Islands are excessively steep and many sites in the South Moresby Wilderness Proposal area have been identified as unstable.

Federal fisheries officer Jim Hart said from his office in Queen Charlotte City today the area closed to logging is on Riley Creek in Rennell Sound, on the west coast of Graham Island.

He said that Q.C. Timber Ltd. has been ordered not to cut a single tree on the site identified by forestry and fisheries experts as unstable.

Hart said most the flat ground has been logged off.

"They're moving into the steep areas a lot now . . . it has us concerned."

Hart said that because of the combination of high rainfall and steep terrain in the Charlottes, it is absolutely necessary to leave timber in some areas.

A 1978 report by the provincial environment ministry states: "It is well documented that forests play an important role in stabilizing slopes and that clear-cutting promotes erosion and landsliding. Observations . . . reveal that this is also true of western Graham Island and undoubtedly for all steeplands in the Queen Charlottes."

Research has shown that four or five years after a tree has been cut its massive root network disintegrates, and the anchor that has held the soil is removed.

"Certainly there's lots of evidence up here as to what can happen," said Hart.

"We've had some slides and erosion (in the Rennell Sound area) already. Most of it has been directed at the sea but some has occurred in watersheds. In one case a slide flushed right out the creek to the estuary."

BEIRUT (AP) — Three Arabic-speaking gunmen hijacked a Lebanese airliner with 73 persons on board on a flight to Amman, Jordan, today. The plane landed at Beirut airport after abortive attempts by the three to take it to Cyprus or Turkey, airport officials reported.

To Fail or Not to Fail. . .?

To fail or not to fail was the question Monday night as Greater Victoria school trustees took part in a heated debate on the merits of report card grades.

The end result was that report cards will continue to show F for failure.

Discussion of a locally-designed report card caused a split in the usual five-four voting pattern of the board.

Dr. Martin Levin disagreed with a remark by trustee John Young that failing students has a negative impact and should be abolished.

The board is divided between the administrative types and the educational philosophers, who now have the strongest representation. Both Levin and Young belong to the second group.

Their disagreement surprised other trustees.

Young's stand against failing grades was supported by trustees Mary Breer and chairman Carol Pickup, who commented that the system usually fails the child.

"It's high time we admit we are failing and not the child," said Pickup.

She said failure results in a harmful loss of self esteem by the time the student reaches young adulthood.

Levin said grading is necessary and that failure is a a reality that can be an important experience.

Fisher said he is "bugged" by the protective attitude toward students and said a system where no one ever fails is a mediocre system where nothing of value is learned.

Trustee Susan Brice pointed out that the report card, submitted by Victoria high school, is for senior secondary students who should have learned to cope with the system.

She said there is ample room on the card for teachers to explain grades.

Priority Goals Outlined

A report from Greater Victoria schools superintendent Allan Stables citing reduction of elementary class sizes, student consultation and community involvement as high priority objectives for 1979 was received by the school board Monday night.

The board referred the report to its new planning committee for study.

Stables said reduction of the pupil-teacher ratio in elementary classes is an important goal that should be achieved by June of this year.

Land Sale Chaos - NDP

Victoria NDP MLA Charles Barber said Monday the provincial government's plan to sell Crown land will create chaos in the real estate market and poor housing developments.

Barber said the plan reveals Premier Bill Bennett's desperate desire to be reelected because the depressed construction market indicates there is no housing crisis or need to make land available for building.

He said the Crown land would be quickly bought by developers who will build more of the poor housing developments that now plague the province.

Lands Minister Jim Chabot said Monday the government would begin selling Crown land in three or four months.

Chabot confirmed the sale after Bennett told a Social Credit regional convention here Saturday that selling Crown land would give young people an opportunity to own a piece of the province.

Barber said, however, a survey conducted three years ago shows there is little Crown land available near Vancouver or Victoria, the main population centres in the province.

"There is is no overwhelming sense of urgency right now," he said.

Barber said if the provincial government makes thousands of hectares of Crown land available and simultaneously phases out regional districts, a major regulator of land use, the developers and speculators will buy it and chaos will follow.

"What the developers will do is build the kind of sleazy developments we have come to know in B.C."

Chabot said large tracts of Crown land will be broken into smaller parcels and put on the open market at either market value or 10 per cent below market value.

Commenting on the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation decision to issue a prospectus because the cabinet order exempting the corporation was ridiculous, Barber was complimentary.

He said attempting to sell shares without a prospectus is a shoddy business practice that was outlawed in private enterprise years ago and Premier Bill Bennett should not follow the practice.

Barber said last week that the exemption might be illegal, and the NDP might appeal the move.

David Helliwell, corporation president, said Monday the corporation will provide a prospectus before the provincial government issues shares in the corporation.

The cabinet passed an order Wednesday exempting the corporation from having to file the prospectus, as required by the Securities Act.

Helliwell said that was only done to allow Bennett to announce his plan to distribute five free corporation shares to every citizen of the province without violating the Securities Act.

Earlier, Robert Scott, president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, said the corporation would not be listed on the exchange until it provided information.

Scott said he hopes the stock exchange will be able to call a market on the shares shortly after they are distributed in August so people will know their true market value.

One unit of five common shares will be available to all of B.C.'s 2.4 million residents who are Canadian citizens or have qualified and applied for citizenship and who have lived in B.C. for one year before applying for the shares.

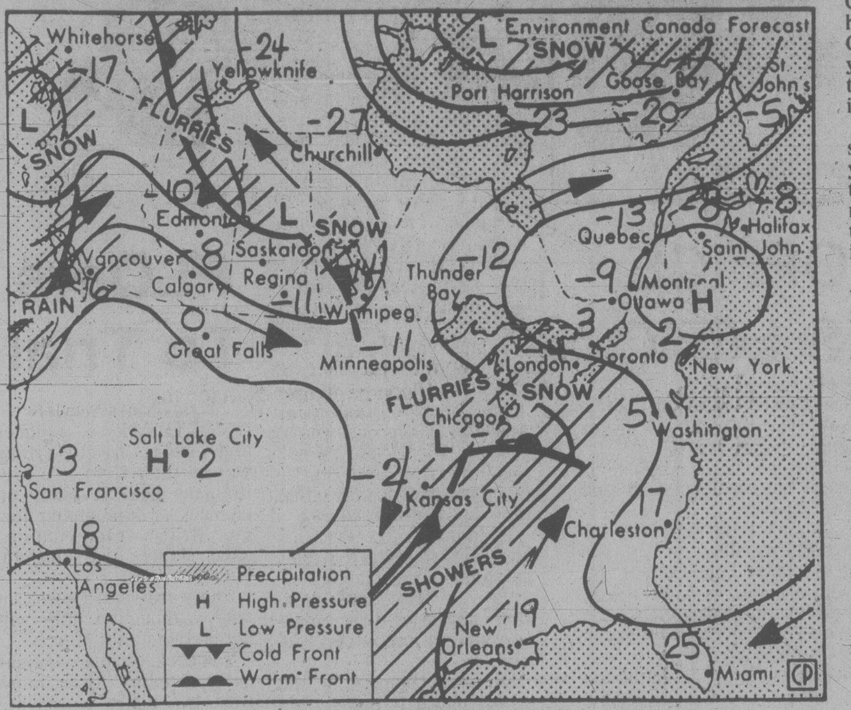

Map valid until noon Wednesday

A weather disturbance brought occasional light rain to the outer coast and some light snow to other coastal areas and the central interior during the night. A more active Pacific storm will move to the north coast today bringing rain to most coastal areas and spreading occasional snow through the interior. Milder temperatures are expected along the coast today as the Pacific air spreads into all areas. The milder air will flood into the interior tonight and Tuesday, forcing Arctic air to retreat and slowly moderating interior temperatures.

ENVIRONMENT CANADA WEATHER OFFICE 10 a.M. FORECASTS

Under Estimate

Six of the 10 bids on installation of a 4,400-metre section of water pipe from Stelly's Cross Road at Central Saanich Road to the Experimental Farm on Bourne Terrace were well under the estimated $603,000 when opened Monday at the Capital Regional District.

The low bids are attributed to lack of projects in the area.

The tenders are being examined by engineering staff and it is expected the contract will be awarded after next week's regional board meeting.

Engineer Michael Williams said he is happy with the bidding, adding: "The construction industry is not working to capacity and, because of that, competition is keen."

There was a difference of $321,276 between the low bid of Four Star Construction at $412,229 and the high bid from K. Viney Construction at $733,506.

Other bids were Alberni Excavation, $517,985; Chew Excavating, $563,880; Goodbrand Construction, $654,987; H.B. Contracting, $469,600; Don Mann Excavating, $513,183; Standard General Construction, $665,864; Upland Excavating, $718,276, and Webb and Trace, $447,987.

'NO OBLIGATION'

Esquimalt aldermen decided at a closed meeting Monday the municipality has no legal obligation to correct a five-year-old faulty sewer installation at an Admirals Road condominium.

The strata title corporation consisting of the 12 owner-occupants at 642 Admirals will be instructed to bring the sewer up to standard, Mayor Art Young said today.

Municipal engineer Mac Campbell recommended 90 days be allowed for the work, estimated to cost $12,000.

Based upon advice from the municipal solicitor, council agreed there is no liability to Esquimalt, even though the sewer apparently passed municipal inspection at the time it was installed.

"We didn't expect more than 240," said Red Cross official Gerry Savage. "If we keep that up, we will be over the top (900 pints) by Friday."

Red Cross is seeking more donations this week to build up the bank. Supplies were low in the last week of December due to a poor turnout of donors in Vancouver.

Today a clinic is being held at Sidney from 2 to 8 p.m.

A clinic will be held at the Esquimalt Recreational Centre Wednesday from 2 to 8 p.m.

Way Sought Around Easement

Saanich municipal officials have been asked to explore means of providing sewers and storm drains to a 52-lot subdivision in the North Quadra area without obtaining an easement from poultry farmer Richard Fatt.

Originally the sewer route proposed by Saanich would have traversed the farm property, but officials realigned it to skirt the adjacent residential lots of Fatt and his father on Dieppe Road.

However, the change still failed to satisfy Fatt, who opposed the easement unless he was given an assurance that the farm operation could continue.

Such an assurance could only become a reality, he argued, if the property to the south were placed in the Agricultural Land Reserve, to act as a buffer between the farm and encroaching residential development.

Fatt's solicitors, Harman and Company, submitted a letter drawing attention to this basic conflict.

"Mr. Fatt has repeatedly brought to council's attention the self-evident fact that adjoining farms and residential properties just do not mix, and once the adjoining properties are fully developed residentially it will only be a short time before complaints will be lodged against the farm operation and pressures brought to bear to get rid of it," the legal firm stated.

At Monday night's council meeting a spokesman for the North Quadra Land Use Protection Association expressed concern about a newspaper report indicating that two Saanich officials saw expropriation as the only way out of the dilemma.

But Ald. David Paterson assured him that no council member had advocated that extreme step.

"I don't believe it's the intention of this council to entertain expropriation proceedings," he said.

Hospital Death Ruled Accident

A coroner's jury has ruled accidental the death of a 63-year-old man whose clothes caught fire while smoking in a pavilion at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

James William Patullo died Dec. 26 in the burns unit of Victoria General Hospital from complications caused by the third-degree burns he suffered Dec. 21 when his hospital issue polyester-cotton blend pyjama bottoms ignited.

The jury made no recommendations that other materials be used after being told by a hospital official that wool also could be flammable and using fire-retardant clothing or treating cloth was too expensive.

James Holden, Jubillee director of supply services, said two expensive fire-retardant materials are used for hospital clothing but only in high-risk areas.

Patricia Ramsey, head nurse in Patullo's ward, said although smoking was discouraged in other than approved areas, it was not specifically prohibited in the bathroom where Patullo smoked.

REZONING BID TO COMMITTEE

Saanich council Monday night referred to its planning committee a rezoning application by a developer who wants to add two wings to an existing apartment building on Glasgow Avenue.

The proposal by G-Plan Properties is supported by municipal planner Gil Laurenson but opposed by the Advisory Planning Commission.

Ald. David Paterson expressed concern that the rezoning application comes from a developer who is being sued by Saanich for overdue property taxes.

But Ald. Howard Sturrock said it's possible the taxes haven't been paid because the apartment in its present form is not a money-making enterprise. He suggested a public hearing be called on the matter.

In other business, council:

—Scheduled for Feb. 2 the first sitting of the local court of revision dealing with the business tax assessment roll.

—Approved a 10 per cent increase in the municipality's 1979 kennelling contract with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

—Sent back to the parks and recreation committee a proposal that fees at the new Cedar Hill golf driving range be halved for a trial period to encourage use of the facility.

Smash-Grab

Two youths are being sought in connection with a smash and grab at Hygrade Radio in the 800-block View late Monday night.

Police said thieves took a portable television after smashing in a 10-foot by six-foot plate glass window in the store.

School Name Change?

The University of Victoria board of governors will be asked to change the name of the department of music to the school of music.

The proposal has already been approved by the UVic senate.

Dr. George Corwin, a conductor in the department, said the word school more accurately describes the activities being carried on. A school of music trains musicians to a professional level while a deparment deals mainly with laymen and amateurs on music appreciation and basic skills.

The Invisible Man In Public View

By ALLAN FOTHERINGHAM
Special to The Times

JERUSALEM — One of the proofs of the disintegration of our society along with drive-in restaurants and polyester slacks, is the semantic nonsense of a "photo opportunity."

The photo opportunity is an invention devised by Ron Ziegler, the press secretary of the not-lamented Richard Nixon. What is so remarkable, so astonishing, is how quickly the nonsense has been accepted into the lingo of respected politicians who so often want to fake illusion for reality.

In classic form, when one politician wishes to huddle behind closed doors with another politician, a "photo opportunity" is announced. The press is allowed into the room for up to a fat three minutes and snaps away furiously while the leaders, in animated fashion, exchange inanities about the weather and their children's difficulty with acne.

The lowly pencil press gazes about in boredom, noting the color of the drapes and the number of water glasses.

The Joe Clark tour of the globe has been one long photo opportunity. Everyday in every country the program is sprinkled with the hated phrase. On Monday in Jerusalem there were four such attempts to substitute the illusion for the reality.

Things have now reached the stage where Clark took into some of his meetings with top Israeli leaders two corporate fund raisers from Toronto — while of course the press remained outside.

Irving Gerstein, president of People's Credit Jewellers, and Jeffrey Lyons, a Toronto lawyer who is an old friend of Clark's with the wives joined the Clark entourage here.

The concern is two of the ridings in Canada where the Jewish vote is crucial.

The ritual photographs had been snapped and Canadian reporters dutifully began to shuffle from the room when a Peres aid signalled them to sit down. Canadian ambassador Ted Lee indicated his concern in a stage whisper once he realized the reporters were going to stay. But Peres indicated he had no objection that the session be on the record and turned to Clark.

The Conservative leader, swallowing hard, allowed that he would be very pleased to have the press present.

What followed was a rather embarrassing contrast in the two men as Clark, again seemingly unprepared by his staff, flitted around the edges of the Israeli-Jordanian dispute over the west bank and appeared increasingly uneasy with the Canadian reporters recording every word.

In the middle of the session, Peres' secretary appeared with an urgent message and Peres suddenly bolted from his seat, and sprinted to the door on his way to the adjoining Knesset chanber for a speech on a shuffle of the Menachem Begin cabinet. A rather befuddled Clark was left in mid-thought.

The point of all this is that Clark, while girdling the globe, does not appear to want to say anything. In ten days in which there has been almost as much idle time sitting on planes and in airports as there has been on the ground, he has not submitted himself to a press conference.

While travelling cheek in jowel with the clutch of reporters, passing them on elevators, meeting them at the lost luggage counter, he avoids — or his staff makes sure he avoids — formal encounters with them.

It fits in with the strategy at home, where Clark in the last two years has not ventured once into the national press building theatre for a formal press conference before the full parliamentary press gallery. In those two years he has had two informal question-and-answer sessions in more guarded surroundings.

One would like to think, when you travel around the world with someone, you would get to know him better. The Clark image-makers aboard have managed the opposite. He is not available for a beer, a chat, an off-the-record discussion of his real thoughts or an extended on-the-record submission to questions.

The game plan would seem to be to get Clark to election date without submitting him to a full scrutiny of his policies, his plans, his dreams, his fears.

It seems crazy, but in this age of instant television and press saturation, the electronic media has made it possible for a politician to become even more invisible.

RED BIKINI GIRL IN ASYLUM BID

CANBERRA (Reuter) — An 18-year-old Russian woman in a red bikini who jumped through a cruise ship porthole in Sydney harbor and swam ashore to seek political asylum may be allowed to stay in Australia, Acting Foreign Minister Ian Sinclair said today.

Sinclair told a news conference that the woman, Lillian Gasinkayov, does not qualify for political asylum, but she may be allowed to stay under other immigration rules.

Miss Gasinskayov, a waitress, jumped from the Soviet liner Leonid Sobinov Monday night and swam to a nearby wharf. A passerby found her shivering near the dockside.

Crisis Food Aid Set

ROME (Reuter) — Emergency food aid for four million hungry people in seven countries was announced today by the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

Supplies for flood victims in Vietnam will total $2.5 million and make up the largest slice of the $11-million package. People hit by natural disasters in India, Sri Lanka and Mauritania will also benefit.

Aid worth more than $3 million will feed refugees in Bangladesh, Honduras and Lebanon.

The FAO said a grant of $1.6 million for Lebanon would help feed more than 110,000 people displaced by recent fighting.

Slide Kills Three

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — A 160-metre wide avalanche of ice and snow roared down Mount Seegrube Monday, killing three American students on a vacation in the Alps. Seven other persons were injured.

About 300 volunteers from Innsbruck and nearby villages, summoned to the scene by skiers who were able to free themselves, searched the site for victims.

There had been little snow on the 2,100-metre mountain a few kilometres north of Innsbruck but about one metre fell overnight.

'I Don't Think I've Been Bad. . .'

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Carter asserted today that his words and recent behavior have been cited out of context and said: "I don't think I've been bad."

As an example of his activities being put in a bad light, he cited a much-publicized episode in which he urinated on the Atlanta airport runway.

"We were on the end of the runway waiting for three hours," President Carter's brother said on the ABC-TV program Good Morning America. "A reporter apologized to me because he also got out and did the same thing. We had a policeman with us. I asked if it was all right."

The reporter was not named.

TAIWAN VETOES MAINLAND NEWS

TAIPEI (AP) — The Nationalist government has banned foreign news reports on Peking's proposals for postal, trade and air links between Taiwan and the mainland, government sources said today.

They said a government agency in charge of publications and information has received many calls from readers who said foreign newspapers reporting Peking's overture would harm the morale of the people on Taiwan and asked the government to take urgent steps to ban these newspapers.

The sources did not say how many issues of foreign newspapers or magazines were banned or suspended.

The proposals from the mainland began about the time the United States recognized Peking on New Year's Day and broke diplomatic relations with Tai-

Peking Seeks To Join IMF

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The People's Republic of China is signalling it wants to join the International Monetary Fund.

First public hint of Peking's westward glance was revealed Monday by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, on his return from an 11-day trip to China, Thailand, the Philippines, Japan and Korea.

Glenn said he conferred for an hour with Feng Tien-shun, manager of the Bank of China, who disclosed Peking's desire to join the monetary group.

The IMF, which groups together the major industrialized nations, maintains a multi-billion dollar fund on which member countries can draw to meet balance of payments difficulties.

So far, the only communist members are Romania, Vietnam, the People's Republic of Yemen, Cambodia and Yugoslavia.

The Soviet Union and most of its east European allies have avoided contact with the IMF, which they regard as an exploitative imperialist bloc.

IMF membership carries with it the annual obligation of making detailed disclosures of a member nation's economy. These reports are not released publicly but are available to all IMF members.

An IMF spokesman said he saw no special problems in China joining the organization. But he indicated the IMF had not heard directly from the Chinese about their interest.

A major difficulty in current U.S.-China trade remains the question of unsettled claims.

When the Communists seized power in 1949, the United States froze Chinese assets in the United States and China nationalized U.S. property in China.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal will seek to negotiate a settlement when he goes to Peking in March.

Did you purchase your RRSP at the usual place just because it was convenient?

Many people consider buying RRSP's a matter of convenience. But when you invest only once a year in an RRSP, and the outcome of that decision will affect your entire retirement, you owe it to yourself to seek out all the options.

Royal Trust offers six RRSP options. For example, your guaranteed interest returns can vary like a savings account or be guaranteed for 5 years. You can invest in a bond fund, or a mortgage fund. You can participate in our Canadian common stock fund. Or, you can have a self-directed plan.

The choice is yours.

Did you pay a commission to buy your RRSP?

The amount of dollars available for your retirement is dependent on how much is actually invested each year. If you pay a commission, less goes into your account. That doesn't have to be, and it doesn't happen when you buy a Royal Trust RRSP.

Did you put this year's RRSP deposit in your own name again, rather than your spouse's?

Under current regulations, you and your spouse will each be allowed up to $1000 of retirement income after age 65 without paying any tax. You can now make all or part of your allowable annual RRSP contribution in your spouse's name and still claim it as a deduction from your taxable income. That way you get the tax deduction now, and you both may claim a $1000 deduction later.

Spousal RRSP's make a lot of sense.

Did you invest your cash in an RRSP and borrow funds for a major purchase?

You should have borrowed the funds for your RRSP and saved your cash for that major purchase. The interest would have been at our lower Tax-Saver Loan rate, and it would also have been tax deductible. The result would have been a considerable savings over your non-deductible, higher rate consumer loan.

Sometimes it pays to borrow to save.

Did you make a mistake?

If you haven't made this year's contribution, you can still avoid these potential mistakes. Talk things over with Royal Trust first.

If you have already made this year's contribution, we can still help. Most RRSP's can be easily transferred without affecting your annual allowable contribution or income tax status. If you agree that a Royal Trust RRSP is better for you than your present plan, we'll have it quickly switched over.

And don't miss depositing for the 1978 tax year because of a lack of funds. Talk to us about a Tax-Saver Loan. Your tax savings alone could more than offset your interest costs.

Make no mistake about it.

Still Another Commission

It's a pity to be discouraging about the decision of the Greater Victoria school board last week to set up a commission to study "educational needs" in the school district.

The idea is obviously well-intentioned and fits well with the general principles of community involvement and consultation. But a quick look at the history of such commissions is enough to show that the results seldom justify the efforts put forth.

In Greater Victoria, for example, a similar sort of plan was adopted in 1969. At that time a new director of instruction, John Wiens, had been appointed for the district. Wiens proposed the idea of gathering together parents, teachers, students, administrators, taxpayers and board members to look at the underlying goals and needs of the school system. The board of the day approved the idea and Project Learning was born.

Public meetings were held, local committees were set up within the district, reports were written. Many members of the public were enthusiastic; some of the meetings were attended by more than 100 people.

Yet now, almost 10 years later, who remembers that Project Learning even existed? The underlying goals of our school system have changed little, although it may be argued that the move to more choice in school programs — more-structured schools, less-structured schools, parent involvement schools, community involvement schools, and so on — was encouraged by the results of the project.

More recently, a couple of provincial governments have tried the broad-based, consultative approach to making fundamental decisions about schools. NDP education minister Eileen Dailly indeed consulted so much that scarcely a decision was made during her 39 months in office. Socred Education Minister Pat McGeer tried to consult everybody about the core curriculum, and ended up with one that was virtually identical to the one the civil servants had written in the first place.

Quite simply, the depth of division in the community concerning education is such that consensus is unlikely ever to be achieved. The taxpayers who believe that schools could be run just as efficiently and more cheaply if "frills" were removed will never agree with the parents who want the schools to provide their children with small classes, subjects outside the core curriculum, and a wide introduction to their community. The residents who want to close down schools as the over-all district school population decreases will never agree with those who believe the benefits of the small neighborhood schools far outweigh their costs.

In the end, the school trustees will have to listen to all the arguments from each side and then make their own decisions. The arguments have been articulated over and over again, well and clearly by each side.

The board might as well just make its decisions now, because the commission is unlikely to give it any help in finding a commonly-held direction in our community.

Words of Praise

Words of praise today for Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis who, since taking over the portfolio last month, has made a number of sensible, useful decisions.

First, Curtis announced a thorough study of B.C. Buildings Corporation operations, a step that should improve the efficiency and responsiveness of that Crown corporation.

Curtis also made public a list of all recipients of money from B.C. lottery funds, a move that should have come months or years earlier. He has promised as well to maintain a policy of openness regarding the use of the $1.1 million the province receives each month from the lottery profits.

Now Curtis has rejected a "mini-world" proposal for the St. Ann's Academy site and has told BCBC to break off negotiations with the group of businessmen who were developing the idea. The minister recognized that the St. Ann's property is "priceless in terms of its relationship to Beacon Hill Park, the legislative precinct and the Inner Harbor" — a recognition that apparently escaped other cabinet ministers who were reported to be enthusiastic about turning the site into a gaudy Disneyland-type tourist attraction.

Curtis is right. The historic site deserves better than a 14-foot replica of St. Paul's Cathedral, a 12-foot Big Ben and a miniature Thames River running through it.

If Curtis continues a pattern of such sound decision-making, he will soon become one of the top ministers in Bill Bennett's government.

Ant Army Gets Out of Hand

WASHINGTON — The U.S. experience with lobbyists, the so-called "ant army" of 10,000 men and women who seek to influence laws on behalf of special interests, is a useful model for countries like Canada who might be thinking of some kind of lobby regulation.

Lobbyists are often accused of bending the U.S. federal system out of shape. An estimated $1 billion is poured into the effort every year, leaving a profound impact on the wording of legislation that issues from Capitol Hill.

They come big and small. There are lobbies of retired spies, lobbies of popcorn producers and carousel owners, lobbies for big game hunters who have trouble getting their African antelope carcasses back through customs.

There are highway billboard lobbies, marijuana lobbies, Greek lobbies who look askance at Turkish lobbies, and Israeli lobbies who try to bully Arab lobbies.

N.Y. State Has 38

There is even a lobby for the Irish Republican Army; there are lobbyists for individual cities and states, including one for Oak Park, Ill. (pop. 62,500) and 38 for New York state.

Every industrial and trade association, from bottle-makers to bagel bakers, has one or more "men" in Washington who focus their attention on the day-to-day work of 535 congressmen and 100,000 bureaucrats.

Most of the money they spend is never fully accounted for, thanks to a 1946 lobbying statute that is sometimes called "more loophole than law."

During the Panama Canal debate last year, opponents of the treaty to cede the canal back to Panama spent $2.3 million on lobbying the Senate. The treaty barely squeaked through. Their most signal success came in the fight over President Carter's energy package, and as a result, the Carter administration turned sour towards the power persuaders.

The lobbies are effective because they operate out of public view. If there's one thing the lobbies agree on, Ralph Nader and the generals of GM alike, it's that they should not be interfered with.

Lobbying exists in Ottawa, of course, but it's directed mainly at bureaucrats, a Canadian spokesman said. Nevertheless, a number of private member's bills periodically pop up in the House of Commons, aimed at shedding more light on lobbyists.

In the U.S., lobbying by private interests is an elemental part of government. Congressmen, each of whom sit on several committees, are required to make scores of voting decisions every year, often on matters they know little about.

Lobbyists, frequently in the form of high-priced lawyers, come to them bearing information. And sometimes pressure. And occasionally the promise of campaign cash.

For the giants in the lobbying netherworld, money is no object. That goes for powerful groups like the American Medical Association, the AFL-CIO, the Trial Lawyers Association and others. Even the octopus-like Ralph Nader organization has millions to dispense every year.

RALPH NADER
. . . he and GM both say 'hands off'

The 1946 law that purports to control these forces, known as the Regulation of Lobbying Act, is one of the feeblest pieces of legislation on the U.S. statute books.

It requires organizations to register with the government only if their "principal purpose" in Washington is lobbying members of congress. There is virtually no enforcement — only two prosecutions have beeen carried out under the act in 32 years.

The "principal purpose" clause thus exempts industrial giants like Mobil from registering, since their main job is marketing. In 1977, the year of the giant energy lobby crusade, seven individuals who represent Mobil in Washington reported lobbying expenses of $796. About the same applied to the rest of the "seven sisters," the biggest oil companies in the world.

Yet it was no secret that untold millions were poured into the lobbying drive that year.

Common Cause, one of the few public interest groups pushing for tighter lobby controls, says this kind of anarchy is dangerous because it invites abuse.

"Without this data [about who is spending how much on lobbying] no one can describe to the public and congress the real extent of the pressures on behalf of legislation that may transfer millions of dollars from one interest to another," says the group in a study of federal lobby law.

Since 1976, congress has twice attempted to produce a new code of regulation.

Same 2,300 Years Ago

But groups as diverse as the Sierra Club and the National Rifle Association dug in, and succeeded in having the reforms shelved. They said lobbying is protected by the U.S. constitution, that compliance with a new code would be too expensive, and that privacy was necessary to protect contributors.

Undeterred by the fallout over the Korean bribery scandal, a juicy bit of "booze, broads and boodle" in the best tradition of old-time lobbying, even the liberal press in Washington and New York criticized the proposed reforms.

Later this year, however, the Carter administration and pro-reform forces in the Senate are expected to take another crack at bringing the lobbyists to heel.

More than 2,300 years ago, Plato recognized the value of lobbyists but criticized their "fawning speeches and witcheries of supplication" directed at members of the Athenian senate, who were not above taking the occasional bribe.

The "ant army" is not substantially different today, alternatively abusing and benefitting the system, but it may soon be ordered to march in a more visible and orderly fashion.

Not Insurance

Now that the federal government has reneged on its commitment to the unemployed, one assumes that the scheme known as the Unemployment Insurance Commission will be renamed the Employment Tax Commission, which is surely more appropriate.

After 30 years of paying into this so-called insurance scheme and receiving little from it prior to this year at age 60, one finds it very uninsuring. How would people feel should this example be followed by private insurance schemes?

If the government is so anxious to cut costs, may I suggest that it start at the top instead of at the bottom of the stack and attack the salaries of politicians and also their pensions instead of cutting the lifeline of the people who can least afford it.

Surely, if cuts had to be made, they could have been graded. First of all those who misuse the scheme: e.g. the married women who would be serving their communities better by staying at home and caring for their husbands and children, and who are frequently the worst offenders. Secondly, those young people who have not as yet contributed to the scheme and should still be able to receive support from their parents.

Those of us who have honestly only made use of the scheme from dire necessity should be absolved and the volume of our past contributions taken into account. I consider the arbitrary 10 per cent cut across the board most unjust.

Unfortunately, expenses one is committed to don't dissolve when one becomes unemployed and the cut one receives when one switches from a regular salary to unemployment insurance certainly does not encourage one to stay on it for any longer than one can help. Minimum wage jobs just don't solve the problem either, however willing one is to work for less, and these jobs should be held by young people without financial commitments and who are also the inexperienced. — Beryl M. Gough, Victoria.

Decent Citizens

We hear so much about our young people which is unfavorable, drugs, vandalism, destruction, self-gratification, that I thought you would like to hear of the other side.

There are still those who are on the side of decency and right; why not laud them for a change? We were a little late going to the Christmas Eve service at St. John's United. While waiting in line it was a joy to see young couples and smiling groups of young people. I would say that 80 per cent were young folks, which proves they are looking for and wanting solid ground to walk on.

As we, with many others, had to find another service (the place filled to capacity) we ventured to another United Church down on Quadra as did many other folks and this place also filled before the service started.

One needs to be reminded that not all young people are at the discos and the sex movies — thank God — for our decent young citizens. Let us give them our full support. — Louise Hornseth, 1435 Elford Street.

St. Andrew's cathedral.

Peter Cotton

While attention is focused, as a result of his recent death, on the late Mr. Peter Cotton, might I take the opportunity of paying him a small tribute by reminding your readers that, in addition to the accomplishments already noted by the Times, Mr. Cotton was also responsible for the exterior restoration a few years ago of a strikingly beautiful downtown landmark, historic St. Andrew's Cathedral, at the corner of Blanshard and View. — Robin Terry, 524 Dallas Road.

Why Not Sell?

Recently there have been many complaints about the sale of Crown-owned companies. Locally the sale of bus companies has been most highly criticized. This criticism, if coming from people who voted Socred, is not warranted, since the sales are made for philosophical reasons. This policy was made clear before election, and is being carried out now. I see no subterfuge, deceit or policy reversal.

This philosophical attitude of the Socred party, and their Liberal and Conservative converts, maintains that what is good for business, is good for the people of B.C.; that government should not be involved in enterprises which private business could handle; and should not compete with private enterprises. Thus government should aid, abet and co-operate with the needs and interests of private enterprise.

It follows quite naturally, profitable operation or not, that these Crown assets are being disposed of. Sell to an American firm? Why not? To the Bennett administration business is international; a dollar is a dollar; and B.C. needs foreign investment. Besides the alternative, "a co-op of drivers," must smell to them of "mini-socialism," and is unlikely to get preferential treatment, Canadian or not, from a business-first oriented government.

Like it or not, — call it "selling the house furniture" for spending money, or agree and praise the sales, Bill Bennett and his party are, in this respect, merely carrying out their declared policies. — Cecil P. Rhodes, 576 Margaret Street.

Over the Top

For the second year the Greater Victoria United Way Campaign has been successful in reaching its goal. This is due, in no small part, to the outstanding support given by Victoria Press and Dennis Thompson, who served as chairman of the public relations committee.

We particularly want to acknowledge the effort made by Dennis and his hard-working committee which contributed greatly to this year's success.

Our agencies can now look forward to 1979 knowing they will be able to provide their special services to the handicapped in our community. This would not be possible without the commitment of professional firms such as yours. — Bob Mussett, Campaign Chairman, United Way of Greater Victoria.

Disgusting

As I took out the Weekend supplement of your newspaper Jan. 6, I was disgusted to find on the cover a photograph of a nearly bare-breasted female purportedly to be "on the make." Frankly, I am sick and tired of the so-called permissiveness, whether by innuendo or not, in many of your articles in this section. If I wished to buy this type of literature I could easily do so, however I strongly object to having it come into our home in the guise of a family newspaper. To me, the term family means a group of people living together with mutual love, loyalty and respect. These principles are not served by these types of articles. — Diana J. Soviet Students Taught 'Survival' Techniques

By CRAIG R. WHITNEY
New York Times

MOSCOW — What do Soviet children learn in school? They learn to read; no illiterate high-school graduates here. They learn mathematics; not the "new math," but thoroughly. They learn that individuals are not as important as the collective. They learn that Soviet leaders since Lenin have always been right. And they are disciplined, but they also dance.

There are a lot of things they do not learn.

They do not learn about the purges and prison camps of Stalin, for instance; they do not even learn that Stalin's successors denounced those things. They do not learn so much about discipline that they do not have fights in the corridors, sometimes even ending up with injuries. But they also do not learn about drugs.

Efficient

What kind of people they grow up to be, of course, depends on many things. But the Soviet school system seems to be an efficient tool for turning out obedient, loyal, disciplined citizens.

About 45 million children are in the basic sequence of primary and secondary education, which runs a total of 10 or 11 years, depending on the republic.

The 21 million children in the Russian Republic, the largest of the Soviet Union's 15 constituent states, study the same curriculum, use the same textbooks and wear identical uniforms — blue suits for boys, dark jumpers with white lace aprons for girls. Classes run five hours a day, six days a week in a 10-year system.

A couple of days spent in classes at two relatively new but not exceptional schools in housing projects on the outskirts of Moscow, School 370 at the north end, School 905 in Perovo Borough at the east end, revealed some of the secrets of how schools achieve their aims.

Classes are crowded, with 37 to 40 pupils to a room. At least in the presence of visitors, a remarkable discipline prevails, and the teachers manage to get the students themselves to enforce it.

Organization in collectives begins in the early grades, with the formation of teams of six to seven children.

"The teams compete in studies, in discipline, in personal appearance and in public-spirited activities like cleaning the blackboards and picking up around the classrooms," said Zoya N. Kirkovskaya, a third-grade teacher at School 370. "The pupils themselves rate each other, and they elect their own monitors."

How do the children elect their leaders? The same way grown-ups elect theirs — by unanimous vote after guidance from those who know best.

Teachers are a major influence in the lives of the younger children, but older classmates also play a role. After the third grade, every pupil joins the Pioneers, the Communist children's organization. By the end of the 10th grade, and graduation, every student has joined the next stage, the Komsomol, or Young Communist League.

Supervised

Much about the ceremonies and rituals of these quasi-obligatory organizations may irk American sensibilities, and perhaps some students as well as they grow older. But subtly the idea of the importance of the collective is instilled from the very first year.

Moving up to the Pioneer organization and membership in the school's Pioneer cell involves the children even more in each other's affairs, under the close supervision of teachers and Pioneer "guides," who are assigned by the Komsomol from outside the school.

A meeting of fifth-grade Pioneers after class at School 905 looked like something between a military parade and a scout rally. Marina Savelyeva, a 22-year-old member of Komsomol who is studying to become a teacher, was in charge.

After the children had made the ritual incantation about being "always prepared," marked time to recorded celebration music of the kind usually heard at Kremlin galas, and obeyed a command to be "at ease," they sat down for a quick business meeting.

"Now we'll thank the four comrades who've done the best civic work in our school," Miss Savelyeva prompted. A girl got up to name them. Then, again with guidance, the class unanimously adopted a resolution: "We pledge to make our best efforts to finish the semester with the best possible results."

In the West, schoolchildren form their own peer groups, but here the peer group is a kind of obligation and study aid. The best students, in fact, are sometimes expected to stay after class to help the slower ones catch up.

Children perform patriotic skit in Soviet kindergarten.

"In almost every class," said Valentina A. Demidchenko, deputy principal of School 370, "we've set up 'first-aid' teams so the strongest can help the weakest."

Class standing does not depend only on grades, but also on discipline and attitude. "We try to get the pupils to judge their own behavior," said another teacher, "and not just in class. The other day one of my boys raised his hand to admit that he hadn't paid for his bus fare that day. Nobody had caught him, and he promised to do better next time."

Rituals

All this is good training for the rituals of later Soviet life — vowing to fulfill the plan, standing up to make self-criticisms at party and factory meetings, and so on. How much of it is genuine and how much merely put on is impossible to tell with schoolchildren, but in classes at least they seem to treat the forms with respect.

School lasts five and one-half hours a day, with 24 class-hours a week, but work during class time appears to be intensive. Nowadays most of the learning is supposed to be done in school rather than through heavy loads of homework imposed on earlier generations, but students are hardly coddled.

Mathematics is a required subject. Third graders in Mrs. Kirkovskay's school were learning the concepts of units, tens, and hundreds the other day, adding three-digit sums in their heads and even solving simple equations like X divided by 4 equals 120.

And problems: "If the orbit of a satellite is no closer to the earth's surface than 379 km and no farther than 985 km, does it pass through points distant by 400 km? 300 km? 804 km? 500 km? 1000 km?"

Students seem to be encouraged not so much to probe and question or to inquire independently as to learn their lessons well, assimilate them thoroughly and acquire technical skills.

Nowhere does this seem so striking as in the Soviet history text. There is nothing about Stalin's purges or labor camps or about the fact that as many Soviet citizens perished in them between 1937 and 1953 as were killed by Hitler's armies in the Second World War. There is nothing about Nikita S. Khrushchev or his denunciations of Stalin at the party's 20th congress in 1956. It is as if an American history text omitted mention of the Vietnam War or of President Gerald R. Ford.

Hypocrisy

The only reference to Stalin's death in 1953 goes as follows: "The enemies of socialism assumed and hoped that Stalin's death would lead to a split between the leadership of the party and the country. But they seriously miscalculated."

"Kids know next to nothing about Stalin and the 1930's," a man whose school days are not that far behind him remembered recently. "If you tell them that 50 million people were imprisoned at one time or another they don't believe it."

He said his own reassessment of the way he was brought up in school came much later, and does not come at all to most who grow up in the Soviet Union.

The emphasis on making children responsible for one another's behavior generates a lack of candor, he says. "Hypocrisy and duplicity are survival mechanisms. It would be a disaster if a kid said in school, 'Papa says Brezhnev is full of baloney.' So the family teaches children never to say what they really think at school."

The schools, in this pessimistic view, teach children to think one thing but say and do another. But even this man thinks that those values are useful survival mechanisms and that the schools thus perform a positive social function.

School is not all grim work, and at School 905 a group of fifth graders has formed a dance ensemble called, for some odd reason, "Help Animals," in English. Watching the group bump, grind, twist and swivel, a man who went to school in the 1950's commented, "In my day they would have thrown you out of school for dancing like that."

But the principal, Nina G. Belyayeva, watched delightedly. When they finished, she said, "Go ahead, let's see it again."

Don't Gag the Governor-General

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

In London with his family for a visit with the Royal Family, Edward Schreyer, who becomes the Queen's representative in Canada January 22, talked about the visit ("very homey, not at all protocol-laden") and about his view of the line that divides the things with which a governor-general can properly concern himself and those from which he should keep his distance.

Partisan politics, clearly, is out. But that does not mean, as the governor-general-designate sees it, that he must confine himself to what a predecessor, Vincent Massey, called "governor-generalities." There are matters of importance to the country, Mr. Schreyer believes, on which a governor-general can and should speak out: he mentioned, as examples, national unity and energy. And when he feels the time has come to speak out, he will.

SCHREYER
. . . a precedent

Such a view of the role of a governor-general is to be encouraged. And there is an ample body of precedent on which to draw for that encouragement. Among the most moving and memorable of examples is that of Governor-General George Vanier's New Year's message of 1967, as Canada's Centennial year began and his own life of service to Canada neared its end.

He said: "The measure of our unity has been the measure of our success. . .

"If we imagine that we can now go our separate ways within our country, if we think that selfish interests can now take precedence over the national good; if we exaggerate our differences or revel in contention; if we do any of these things, we will promote our own destruction."

Canada, he said, owes it to the world to remain united: "No lesson is more badly needed than the one our unity can supply, the lesson that diversity need not be the cause for conflict but, on the contrary, may lead to richer and nobler living. . .

"Let us open the windows and doors of the provinces. Let us look over the walls and see what is on the other side. Let us know one another and that will lead to understanding."

That was a strong statement, very strong, in the context of the time, at the height of the intense debate about the shape of Canada's future that was set in motion by the Quiet Revolution in Quebec.

But it was a message Canadians needed then and that we still need, perhaps because we lacked the courage and generosity to apply it at the time as fully as it deserved.

Mr. Schreyer, in his recognition of the opportunities and the challenges, as well as the limits, of the office he is about to take on, is in excellent company.

Fat Fred and Slim Jim

katharine whitehorn

LONDON — Perhaps in a desperate attempt to stop girls buying their slightly stout stablemates a whole lot of slim-fit shirts that would only have to be exchanged after Christmas, a shirt-making firm recently published some research suggesting that women really prefer a man with a bit of tummy to one who is concave all the way down.

Heaven knows how they did the research — did they send out Fat Fred and Slim Jim and see how far they could get with the same random batch of girls? But I suspect they're probably quite right, and understating it at that. For I've never ceased to be astonished at the positively hideous men who seem to have immense success with women.

The ugliest man I ever met in my life was fat, wet-lipped, with a grating voice and an odious manner; you'd have thought he was absolutely designed by God for a life of unremitting celibacy, but no. He married at least three times, and spoke slightingly of the wives, declaring that the best one had been the richest. I can understand how one might have fallen for him. But three? Could he have found three women so short-sighted, so desperate for a British passport, so pathologically afraid of burglars that they would take him on?

No; astounding as it may seem, they must actually have found him attractive. John Wilkes, the 18th-century rake, said, "I know I'm not handsome; but I'm only a quarter of an hour behind the handsomest man in Europe"; and it can't just be a case of "we're No. 2, we try harder."

And it's not, of course, just a question of marrying. Quite often you see a passable-looking wife married to some blob of gleep and think well, at least she knows where he is at nights; a man like that she would plainly have to herself. Not a bit of it; the more awful-looking the man, it seems, the more likely he is to be out after the girls. That he should want to be reassured that women don't flee from him screaming I can understand — but why don't they so flee?

Of course if you see a pretty girl hanging on the arm of someone who looks like a blowfish in the inflated state there may be some sensible explanation; she may be his nurse or his daughter, he may actually be very witty or very kind; he may be about to give her a part in his new show. Or he may be disgustingly rich, since women are apparently attracted by power.

But there has to be a more general explanation; and I suspect it is very simple. Why do quite extraordinary looking men get off with women so easily? Because women never feel at a disadvantage with them. We are reassured, we're relaxed; we're in a happy and generous mood from the start.

Alas, the whole thing is a delusion; it is a snare, it is a con. For a girl's underlying feeling is that the chap will actually be pleased and grateful for her smiles and kindness; how marvellous it must be for him, she feels, to have any half-way personable girl gaze so adoringly at him in public, even kiss him, to go back to his flat . . . In this deadly dangerous situation we entirely overlook two things.

The first is that though it may be a novelty to us, it isn't to him. Whatever his paunch/slobberchops/short fat hairy legs, he's lived with them for a long time, he knows exactly what he can achieve with them. While the girl thinks she's doing him a terrific favor letting him hold her hand in the pictures, he is looking at his illuminated digital watch working out if he's time to get her back to the flat, lay her and still slip out for a quick one before the pubs close.

The other is worse. Because of the high degree of success these Godzillas achieve, they are actually more conceited than the better-looking. Do they realize they appeal because they'e hideous? No. They think they appeal because they are beautiful. Or witty. Or talented. Or have Great Sensitivity. The man who looks like a moth-eaten walrus, whose appeal to women consists entirely in their thinking that he is so plainly frightful and so frightfully plain that he presents no sort of a threat, imagines he wins them over by his mysterious dynamic, sensual and exceptional charm.

If I were you, girls, I'd get a slim-fit shirt, and go around with it, like the Prince and the glass slipper, until you find someone who can get into it. All is vanity; all men are vain. But at least a handsome man won't provoke that most dangerous of all emotions, which is pity.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market, following a decline in New York, was moderately lower in active mid-afternoon trading today.

Among industrials, Dome Petroleum was down 3⅛ to $100⅜, Consumers Distributing 1½ to $9¾, Union Oil of Canada 1 to $23, Texasgulf Inc. ⅞ to $25⅜ and Husky Oil ¾ to $46½.

Metropolitan Trust was up 3 to $35, Pacific Petroleums ¾ to $64⅜, Canadian Tire A ¾ to $27½, Seagram Co. Ltd. ½ to $35⅜ and John Labatt A ¼ to $22¼.

Roman Corp. lost ½ to $28, United Siscoe mines ¼ to $9¼ andf Kerr Addison Mines A ¼ to $12⅞. Dome Mines gained 2 to $92 and Dickenson Mines ⅝ to $7⅝.

Numac Oil and Gas declined 1¼ to $28¾, Amalgamated Bonanza Petroleum ¾ to $28¾ and Canadian Homestead Oils ½ to $11⅞. Canadian Hidrogas Resources Ltd. advanced 25 cents to $4.60 and Merland Explorations ¼ to $10.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street's early-1979 rally faltered today as sellers moved to cash in on the recent rise of the stock market.

Analysts said some traders who had been waiting for a rise in stock prices to do some selling decided that the market had gone far enough.

Brokers said the market also might have been unsettled by evidence of further credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve Board in recent days. Hopes for a letup in the rise of interest rates have been cited as one factorin the market's recent strength.

Du Pont dropped 4⅜ to $139⅝ in active trading. The stock soared 11¾ points Monday when the company announced plans for a 3-for-1 stock split, reported sharply higher fourth quarter earnings and raised its dividend.

McGraw-Hill rose ⅛ to $33⅝. American Express said it would proceed with a $34-a-share offer for the company, despite McGraw-Hill's vehement opposition to the takeover bid.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices moved broadly down with all leading indices posting declines in moderate afternoon trading at the Montreal Stock Exchange. The 85-stock composite index dipped 0.29 to 233.22. Volume at 2 p.m. EST was 334,000 shares, down from the 340,431 shares traded up to the same time Monday. Brascan A led losers, down ⅜ at $19⅜. Inco fell ¼ at $20¾, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ at $54⅝, Alcan ⅜ at $42⅛ and Norcen Energy Resources ⅛ at $18⅛.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The London stock market was mixed near the close of light trading today, overshadowed by strikes of rail and road-haulage workers. The Financial Times index fell 2.3 to 480.5. Banks and gold shares firmed but industrials declined. Canadian issues were little changed.

Newest Cdn. Bank Plans Asia Foothold

By GARRY FAIRBAIRN

CALGARY (CP) — A fledgling western Canadian bank is preparing to spread its wings in Asia.

A the second annual meeting of Northland Bank, newest of Canada's 11 chartered banks, shareholders have been told that Northland is planning to set up an Asian banking subsidiary in co-operation with other banks.

Established by western co-operatives and credit unions to serve western Canadian businesses, Northland has already been active in U.S. and European money markets.

President Hugh Wilson said in recent interviews that 40 per cent of first-year business and 35 per cent of second-year business was in foreign operations.

Although that percentage is expected to decline as Northland builds its domestic business, the dollar volume of foreign activities is expected to increase.

Wilson told shareholders in Calgary that the bank had just finished syndicating the first large foreign loan in which it took the lead role. The $10-million (U.S.) loan was spread among Northland, Western Canada's four credit union centrals, Canadian Co-operative Credit Society and Deutsches Genossenschaftbank (DG Bank) of West Germany.

The developing Asian connections, however, could be much larger.

Director Donald Skagen said in an interview that financial needs in southeast Asia "are going to outstrip growth in almost any other part of the world and we want a piece of the action."

In addition to such trends as increasing general trade with the region and involvement of Alberta oil companies in southeast Asia petroleum development, there are large specific opportunities like Indonesia's need for large-scale harbor development, he said.

Skagen, president of Mohawk Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary, added that China is by itself a vast market that now is opening to the West. Currently, almost half of China's imports come through Hong Kong.

He said the potential trade and contract opportunities for Canada over the next five to seven years are incalculable but enormous, certainly in the billions of dollars.

Skagen stressed that Northland is not departing from its western Canadian mission by pushing into Asia.

During the shareholders' meeting, board chairman Robert Wilson said funds for Northland's foreign activities to date have been raised abroad: "Our involvement in international banking in no way subtracts from or makes use of the Canadian resources of Northland Bank."

Skagen voiced one regret: Canadian financial institutions did not act several years ago to establish relationships with China while U.S. competitors were still hampered by lack of U.S.-China diplomatic relations.

"Now we're just another supplicant," he said. The chance for Canadian institutions to be the main financial link between China and North America have gone."

Wheat Board Official Pledges Adequate Grain for Rupert

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian wheat board is prepared to guarantee ample stocks of grain to proposed new export terminals at the British Columbia port of Prince Rupert.

Commissioner Forrest Hetland said in an interview there would be no problem in allocating additional supplies of grain for a new terminal planned by a consortium of six grain companies.

The consortium has plans to build a new terminal at Prince Rupert with a capacity of five million to 10 million bushels of grain — subject to certain conditions being met.

Hetland said the wheat board is prepared to add its own terminal with a capacity of 20 million bushels.

The present government elevator at Prince Rupert has a capacity of 2½ million bushels of grain.

A number of problems have to be resolved before work begins on new facilities, including an arrangement between Canadian National Railways and CP Rail to allow cars from both railways into the port. Prince Rupert now is served by the CNR alone.

EDC BONDS PUBLIC

OTTAWA (CP) — For the second time in its 34-year history, the Export Development Corporation has announced it is selling its bonds on the public market.

The EDC said in a news release it is offering the public $150 million in five-year bonds at a yield of 9.85 per cent. The bonds will go on sale Jan. 15.

The EDC, a self-sustaining government corporation which promotes export sales, first sold bonds on the public market last July. This followed two years of private bond offerings. Prior to 1976, funds come from the government. It now gets none of its revenue from the public purse.

The proceeds from the bond sale will be used to finance the corporation's export promotion programs.

A spokesman for the corporation said EDC prefers to finance its operations without government money.

"Like any company, we have to borrow part of our operating funds," he said.

New Bowl 'Super Mouth' Surfaces

Joe Namath's Saga Is Recalled

MIAMI (AP) — The noisy arrival of Dallas Cowboys linebacker Thomas Henderson for Sunday's Super Bowl reminded Don Shula and Earl Morrall of another Super Mouth—an insolent young playboy named Joe Willie Namath.

Henderson, who stirred controversy two weeks ago by insisting Los Angeles Rams didn't have the class to reach the Super Bowl, already has gone after Pittsburgh Steelers with such comments as "I took welding," and that he would cut through the Steel Curtain.

Ten years ago, Namath lolled on the South Florida beaches and in the Fort Lauderdale bars and guaranteed victory for the upstart New York Jets against "the old men" Baltimore Colts.

The 1969 Super Bowl was a confrontation of the surprise winner of the American Football League against one of the NFL's established powers. While the flamboyant Namath quarterbacked the Jets, the shopworn, crewcut Morrall and Johnny Unitas led the Colts.

Namath underlined the contrasts with his headline-making statements, then backed them up with a superb game. He led the Jets to a startling 16-7 upset.

Shula, then the Colts coach, chuckled Monday as he recalled the fuss Namath caused. But Shula, who also led Miami Dolphins into three Super Bowls, dismissed the effect of bumptious players during Super Bowl week.

"I don't think brash statements make a team want to get somebody, or make any difference," Shula said. "If it takes something like that to fire you up for the Super Bowl, something's wrong."

Shula said he would never "try to suppress my players" before a big game.

"If somebody expresses something that he honestly believes, I wouldn't say anything. The thing I would watch for is the unnatural situation, where a quiet guy all of the sudden talks a lot or a guy who talks a lot won't say anything.

"If Bob Griese tried to be Joe Namath or Joe Namath tried to be Bob Griese, that would concern me."

Morrall, who replaced the legendary Unitas in 1968 and had the best season of his career, remembered that the Colts' veterans were very aware of Namath's pop-offs. He said, however, that Namath's passing disrupted the Colts much more than his words.

"As I recall, most of it came out in the middle the week. We had won 15 games, and we weren't going to change our approach because of what somebody was saying.

"We didn't play a bad game, but the Jets just had a great game.

"You don't concentrate on the other guy's remarks. Coaches try to fire you up with them, create more intensity. They put clippings on the blackboard. Of course you don't like to have things said about you, but you concentrate on your preparation for the game."

Morrall works for a Fort Lauderdale industrial firm now, while Namath, who rarely consents to interviews, also lives in Fort Lauderdale and will soon open a bar there called Bachelor's III.

It's A Slippery Game; Just Ask Barry Harvey

A lot of granite was tossed about this weekend and the best part may have been the good turnouts at the Racquet Club and Playland. Veteran observers said they had never seen such interest in the sport or as many spectators as took in the opening round of the South Island men's at the Racquet Club, Friday, while at Playland for the Island District ladies and the girls, good attendance was also a feature.

There are always tough-luck losers in any sport and curlers are quick to point out that their sport is the most slippery of all and so much can hang on the slenderest of margins.

Take Barry Harvey of Playland for example. He figures he lost two games by less than an inch. That's total and maybe an over-estimate. The first came in a game against Bob Hawkes of the Racquet Club when his sweepers dragged his rock one-quarter inch too far as he drew against three Hawkes' counters on last rock. A measurement confirmed the fact.

Then against Jim Gallaugher of Playland in a "B" semi-final and trailing 3-2 in the 10th end, he threw a rock that barely missed being second shot by the slimmest of margins, like about half an inch. So he only counted one, got a tie instead of a win and Gallaugher went on to win in the 11th.

Gallaugher, however, will probably remember the super shot he made in the eighth end as his saver, and Harvey never even saw it. While Harvey had adjourned to the powder room feeling secure in what he had accomplished, Gallaugher thought otherwise, got through a hole that wasn't there and when the rocks had come to rest he had a three-ender, a 3-2 lead and on his first score of the game.

As Harvey said afterwards, "I think I curled the best I've ever curled this weekend and I lost two games!"

"But I'm still alive and have another chance" he added. This was in reference to the Totem bonspiel playoff which takes place on the mainland the week following the Island Consols final at Lake Cowichan.

Harvey and Bart Longmore, also of Playland, qualified for the Totem playoff, Harvey by being an event winner and Longmore by virtue of being a defeated semi-finalist. There is one berth open. Glen Pierce won the Totem and automatically qualified for the first Pacific Coast Curling Association playoff berth.

But, speaking of near misses, Hawkes is another who must feel somebody up there doesn't like him. He lost to Steve Skillings on last rock when his draw attempt for a win was slightly heavy, and then he lost to Dagg when that cagey veteran calmly drew the button against two on his last stone to break a 3-3 tie.

Or if you like, there is Len Stewart. He made 20 of 22 shots and yet lost. This was to Dagg who stole a single point on the 11th end when Stewart was light with his final stone.

There were probably other finishes equally as heartbreaking, but the competition this year appeared better all-round than in previous years and there was no cake-walk for anyone.

That was a handy win for Sherri Bath of Oak Bay in the girls' Island final as well. She only faltered once when defending champion Liz Hollands of Duncan, whom she had beaten earlier, forced a playoff for the championship. There is always the fear that a rink untested in this type of competition may let down after such a setback, but not Bath and her mates. They came out hitting and are to be congratulated. Many fans too were impressed with the sweeping on Tracy Keizer's Powell River foursome. They would be a credit to any boys' or men's rink and will bear watching in future years.

As for the local ladies, they were outmatched this time. The championship went off without a hitch, as is usually the case with the ladies. And to Ruth Oster and Joyce Perry, it was a job well done, as always. That helps to make any event a success, as Ken Larson, who handled the South Island Consols so admirably, will agree.

Incidentally, Ken will be in charge of the B.C. Mixed when it is played at the Racquet Club Feb. 16-18.

Otherwise, just about the time the Vancouver Canucks start to show promise, they stumble, as they did in Washington . . . But really they have been hard hit by injuries and now they meet another of their acid tests tonight as they host Montreal Canadiens . . . And, on the other side of the coin the Canadiens appear to be back on track . . . Their seasonal slump seems to be over, Larry Robinson is due to return against the Canucks and that can't hurt them . . . Locally, the UVic Vikings continue to demonstrate they are of national championship calibre while the Vikettes also showed some fortitude as they got back on the bandwagon, which is good news . . . And who's to say that DataTech's two losses on the weekend, although damaging, were totally unexpected? . . . This is tough company and why the team plays in the Northwest League — to get that top competition . . . Besides, they were short numerically and the loss of Bob Burrows, Jim Duddridge and Brent Mullins obviously took its toll.

Steelers Keep Cool Tongues; 'Will Do What Is Necessary'

MIAMI (AP) — Terrible Towels aside, Pittsburgh Steelers are wagging tame tongues in preparation for Sunday's Super Bowl.

A few Dallas Cowboys have filled the air with hot rhetoric, but the Steelers have kept it cool with every quote.

"We take a different approach," tackle Joe Greene said after the Steelers' plane landed here Monday. "We don't say we're the best, we just do what's necessary."

Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw, the National Football League's most valuable player this season, voiced similar sentiments.

"I just don't like to get into that war of words stuff," he said. "I just want to play the best I can and may the best team win."

Greene smiled at the remark attributed to Dallas defender Tom Henderson:

"I think the best thing for our defence to do this week is pull out the acetylene equipment and welding gear and go into the steel mill and disrupt it," It will be a defensive struggle but we will prevail."

Green said he didn't hold Henderson's words against him. Indeed, he and Henderson are off-season pals.

"I admire him for having the courage to say things and then back it up," said Greene.

Will Greene predict a Pittsburgh win?

"I've got a whole lot of confidence in our ball club," was as far as he'd go.

Safety Cliff Harris of the Cowboys has a lot of confidence in his team. He'll be hit even less," said Swann. "Maybe he's right. He just gives me more incentive going into the game."

Harris and Steelers linebacker Jack Lambert clashed in the 176 Super Bowl here. Lambert grabbed Harris and tossed him to the turf after Harris badgered Steelers placekicker Roy Gerela.

"What's past is past," said Lambert. "There's no friction on my part. They feel they're the best team in football. And so do we."

Coach Chuck Noll, the Steelers tone-setter in all phases of the game, including interviews, put it this way: "You've got two good football teams who have two good records and who have played, over a long haul, good football. I think it's gonna' be a good game."

more confident Sunday if Dallas can put the crunch on Bradshaw.

"We're going to have to knock Bradshaw out early," said Harris. "I'll be looking to hit him, not to hurt him, but that doesn't mean he might not get hurt."

Bradshaw, who was knocked cold after throwing his second touchdown pass in Pittsburgh's win over Dallas in the 1976 Super Bowl, dismissed Harris's current game plan.

"If Cliff feels like he needs to knock me out, he should try to do it — but do it cleanly," Bradshaw said.

Harris also has suggested Steelers wide receiver Lynn Swann is a tad timid.

"Cliff Harris told somebody this week that no wide receiver likes to get hit and that Lynn Swann likes to get

Stars' Coach Helped Turn Tim Around

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes the boxscores lie, or, in the case of hockey, it's the summaries that don't tell the whole story.

The numbers they list don't explain enough about the evolution of a team — like the way Minnesota North Stars have been molded, virtually from scratch, into a competitive club.

The summary from Monday night's National Hockey League game says Minnesota's Tim Young scored five goals and had an assist in the North Stars' 8-1 rout of New York Rangers.

But what it doesn't tell you is how both Young and the North Stars have turned tings around this season. Minnesota captain Jean-Paul Parise will tell you that.

"The last two, three or four years, Tim was more or less an individual player because he was so talented," Parise said. "The club was a losing club and it was just Tim's way of survival.

"When you have that much talent, so much more is expected of you, you end up almost having to play as an individual. But (coach) Glen Sonmor made Tim aware that we depend on him and he depends on us, and that helped make him a team player."

The 23-year-old centre was virtually a one-man team Monday night—not because of selfishness, but because he took five shots on goal and they all went in.

Young's five-goal game—one on a breakaway, three on power plays, one on a 70-foot shot—was important to him because it brought him closer to being a "plus" hockey player — on the ice for more goals by his team than by the opposition.

Only three athletes who played for Minnesota on Monday night wore that uniform at this time a year ago—Young, Glen Sharpley and Per-Olov Brasar.

Stenmark Wins Fourth Straight

ADELBODEN, Switzerland (Reuter) — Ingermar Stenmark of Sweden scored his fourth successive giant slalom victory today and retained the lead in the men's World Cup ski standings.

Stenmark was timed in two minutes and 24.16 seconds for the two runs down an icy course.

Andreas Wenzel of Liechtenstein was second in 2:25.70 and 19-year-old Jacques Luethy of Switzerland was third in 2:26.07.

Stenmark retains his World Cup lead with 115 points. Peter Luescher of Switzerland, who fell during today's first run, remains in second place with 112 points.

Wenzel added 20 points to his World Cup total and moved into sole possession of third place with 81 points.

Completing the top 10 in today's race were Heini Hemmi of Switzerland, fourth in 2:26.25, followed by team-mate Jean-Luc Fournier, 2:26.65; Bojan Krzaj of Yugoslavia, 2:27.03; Piero Gros of Italy, 2:27.31; Alexander Giorgi of Italy, 2:27.47; Leonardo David of Italy, 2:27.61, and Anton Steiner of Austria, 2:27.62.

Raymond Pratte of Noranda, Que., finished 45th.

Meanwhile, at Les Diablerets, Zos Hass of Switzerland won the first women's downhill race of the season in the European Cup series.

Zintel Upsets Haywood Rink

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bess Zintel of Burnaby defeated Heather Haywood of Richmond, the defending British Columbia women's curling champion, 9-6 Monday night to capture the District 7 playdowns and a berth in the provincial final later this year.

Haywood placed second in the 1978 Canadian championship.

INDIA TOPS WEST INDIES

MADRAS, India (Reuter) — India beat the West Indies by three wickets today to take a 1-0 lead in their six-match cricket test series. The first three matches were drawn.

India, chasing 125 for victory, had slumped to 84 for six when Kapil Dev came to the wicket. Dev attacked the West Indies bowling from the start and he and Karsan Ghavri took their side to within 10 runs of victory before Ghavri was out.

When the winning run was scored, fireworks were set off by the crowd of about 50,000.

Governors to Discuss Struggling Franchises

Western Hockey League governors will meet Wednesday and Thursday at a Vancouver hotel to discuss several problems, including the future of three struggling franchises — Seattle Breakers, Edmonton Oil Kings and Calgary Wranglers.

Paul Panchyshyn, a Cougar governor who announced the meeting Monday, said most of the agenda will revolve around the financial difficulties encountered by the three clubs.

Seattle is having problems at the turnstiles and coach Les Calder, who joined the team prior to last season, announced his retirement Monday.

Seattle general-manager Ephraim Steinke said a new coach will be named in the next few days.

Breakers are in last place in the league's Western Divison with 28 points.

The Oil Kings, who are in competition for fans with the World Hockey Association Edmonton Oilers, have also fared poorly in their return to the league this season while the Wranglers have the Canadian team training for the 1980 Winter Olympics to contend with in Calgary.

Another topic to be discussed at the meeting is a claim by Victoria Cougars for compensation from the league and/or New Westminster Bruins for a missed game Saturday at Memorial Arena.

The New Westminster club was fogged in at Vancouver International Airport and the game was postponed less than an hour before it was scheduled to start.

In the only league game played Monday, winger Jim Dobson scored two goals in the third period as Portland Winter Hawks handed Brandon Wheat Kings a 3-2 defeat.

It was Brandon's first loss on home ice this season, ending a string of 22 wins and one tie.

TEN TENNIS TOURISTS ABOVE $300,000 MARK

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Dibbs, who won $32,000 for finishing fourth in the Grand Prix Masters tennis tournament on Sunday, was the top money earner on the 1978 pro tour, says the Association of Tennis Professionals.

Dibbs won $573,273, not including a $300,000 bonus for points earned in Grand Prix tour contests.

The 27-year-old Dibbs' total far exceeded his career high. He lost to Brian Gottfried in the Masters consolation match Sunday, 6-4, 7-6.

A record total of 13 players made more than $200,000 in 1978, while 34 went over $100,000, also a record. Ten players went over the $300,000 mark.

The remaining players in the top 10 on the ATP earnings board were Bjorn Borg, $469,441; Raul Ramirez, $463,866; Masters winner John McEnroe, $460,285; Jimmy Connors, $392,153; Wojtek Fibak, $384,665; Vitas Gerulaitis, $380,444; Harold Solomon, $353,234; Ilie Nastase, $351,843, and Gottfried, $345,771.

Umps Want More

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty-one of the 52 major league baseball umpires have returned their individual contracts to lawyer Richie Phillips who will negotiate for them, Phillips said Monday.

At his Philadelphia office, Phillips confirmed a statement made by umpire Larry McCoy on a radio talk show on station KBOA at Kennett, Mo.

McCoy said the action was not a strike, but that the umpires want more money.

Phillips, who is the lawyer for the Major League Umpires' Association, said he has had one meeting with American League president Lee MacPhail and hopes to meet with Chub Feeney, president of the National League. There are 28 AL umpires and 24 in the NL.

There are three years remaining on the general umpires' contract, which sets minumum wages and deals with other benefits.

Yanks Wait for Turn

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — After snubbing San Francisco Giants, Rod Carew and his agent are negotiating with California Angels this week. But the ever-present New York Yankees are still waiting their turn to court the seven-time American League baseball batting champion.

"The Twins and the Giants agreed on everything, but Rod didn't want to go to San Francisco," said Carew's agent, Jerry Simon.

San Francisco withdrew its offer to the Twins when Carew didn't give them an answer by Monday.

A trade to an American League team could be made any time, whereas the Twins couldn't swap the 33-year-old Carew to a National League club, such as the Giants, until Feb. 15 when the inter-league trading period opens.

The Angels have five days left to talk with Carew. California general manager Buzzie Bavasi is reported ready to offer Carew $4 million over five years, but the Twins say they haven't received a reasonable offer from the Angels and that any trade must include outfielder Ken Landreaux.

New York has permission to talk with Carew beginning Saturday if no deal with California can be worked out.

A 'Behave Or Else' Warning From the Top

The Victoria District Golf Committee has settled its dates for the 1979 tournament season, but this year's calendar comes with this stern warning from the top:

No hanky-panky or misconduct will be tolerated.

First of all, handicap cards will have to be very proper at all times this year. That means they must be updated, and properly signed by the club captain, a member of the match committee or any properly-designated authority (which could mean, in some cases, the secretary-manager or professional) for each tournament.

Failure to produce the properly-attested card will result in a two-stroke penalty in medal-play tournaments.

Last year, a similar attempt to eliminate the casual attitude didn't start out too well. The reason for that was because the British Columbia Golf Association did not send out handicap cards until club dues were received by the provincial body.

All Vancouver Island clubs, including those outside the district's jurisdiction, are being notified of the zone one (Victoria) stand. That, hopefully, will enable up-Island golfers (particularly from Nanaimo and Cowichan) to show up with properly-attested handicap cards.

And the District Committee's strong stand against misconduct will continue. Golfers who walk off a course in the middle of a round without just cause (injury, for example) and those who fail to show up for a scheduled teeoff time in a tournament, without notifying the tournament committee, can expect trouble. Ditto the club-throwers and other misbehavers.

Almost assuredly, the penalty will be exclusion from district tournaments for the balance of the year.

The BCGA also has taken a tough stance against misbehaviour. One golfer, who swore at a fore-caddy in the 1978 B.C. Amateur, and in the presence of the BCGA president, will not be allowed to enter a BCGA-sponsored tournament this year. Several others, including one or two from the Lower Island, have been (or will be) advised they are "not welcome" in BCGA tournaments.

Because of extensive course renovations under way at Gorge Vale, there was some juggling in the normally-routine matter of this year's fixtures.

The first round of match play in the Vancouver Island Open and the second round of the City Amateur were to have been played at Gorge Vale. Feeling that there might be some problems if the Gorge was used, club officials requested the events be relocated.

As a result, Cedar Hill will host the first round of the Island Open and Glen Meadows has taken the windup round of the City Amateur.

April 22 — First round, Island Open, at Cedar Hill.
April 29 — Second round, Island Open, at Colwood.
May 6 — Quarter-finals and semi-finals at Uplands.
May 13 — Finals (36 holes) at Victoria.
May 19-20 — City Intermediate (36 holes) at Colwood.
June 2 — City Amateur (first round) at Victoria.
June 3 — City Amateur (2nd round) at Glen Meadows.
June 24 — Centennial Foursomes at Uplands.
June 28 - City Junior (first round) at Glen Meadows.
June 29 — City Junior (2nd round) at Colwood.
Aug. 17 — Zone one seniors championship at Colwood.

BRIEFLY: The District Committee bowed to the wishes of Uplands by not scheduling the Island Open's second round on April 15 . . . That is the weekend Uplands will host its annual Easter Invitational . . . Cedar Hill no longer participates in the reciprocal arrangement between clubs . . . The arrangement comes into effect when a district sanctioned tournament takes over a course . . . Members of the club who are not participating in the tournament can pay reduced fees at any of the other courses. . . . Reciprocal fees, incidentally, are being increased by $1 this year ($6 at Gorge, Colwood and Uplands and $7.50 at Victoria) . . . Pat Fletcher was able to find him, but many of Ben Reid's other friends in Victoria may have been unaware of his lengthy stay in Victoria recently . . . The hush-hush layover was for a reason . . . One of Regina's most prominent amateurs, Reid underwent successful open heart surgery in Victoria and his surgeon's first order was to avoid friends for the sake of complete recovery . . . Ben says he will apologize to Don Wilson, Norm Beatty, Gord Millin, the Andersons (Neil and Eileen) et al later.

Need Coach? Let My Sister Try It

SARAH ANGUS DIRECTS UVIC MEN'S TEAM

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

BALL-BALANCING SKILL is demonstrated by Sarah Angus, coach of UVic men's field hockey team, for Viking players Rick Swindells (right), Mark Charlton and Michael Angus (left), brother of the coach.

Remember Mikey, the kid in the TV commercial who wouldn't eat anything but liked the breakfast cereal?

So it is with Sarah Angus, believed to be the only woman in B.C. coaching a men's field hockey team.

Let Sarah try it, he suggested. She's never coached anything.

But like Mikey, she likes it.

"I'd never thought of coaching before," Sarah said. "I've found that I really love it."

She has her charges in second place in the Vancouver Island men's league at the moment and has her sights set on next season.

"Practices aren't that tough because I really didn't know what I had to work with this year," she explained. "They're strong and they learn fast, though, and next year I'll step it up."

And she's prepared to be tough when she has to.

"I've had a couple of times where I've told them to do something and one or two wanted to do it their way. So I stopped the practice and told them to follow my orders, so to speak, before we go on.

"The ones on the team that are serious appreciate it, but sometimes I think the ones with a tendancy to goof off don't like me because they give me a snarly look. If they keep it up, I'll just tell them to stay away until they're prepared to get down to work."

That hasn't happened and probably won't, judging by the reaction of the players.

"She takes it seriously, so we take it seriously," says team captain Rick Swindells, one of the few experienced players on the team. "She is by far the best coach I've ever played for."

There's no arguing with Sarah's credentials. She has played the game more than half her 25 years, starting at Norfolk House and continuing at Oak Bay High under coach Jill Hawkins, who has turned out more than her share of national and provincial players.

Sarah is one of them. She was a reserve on the Canadian team in 1971 and has played for provincial sides in B.C. and Ontario, where she attended school. She currently plays for Sandpipers in the Island women's league and has experience at three positions — halfback, fullback and forward.

"I've had no physical education or coaching training, but I've had excellent coaches in people like Jill Hawkins and Jenny John (UVic Vikettes coach)," Sarah said.

"I was pretty nervous my first day," she admitted, "but once I learned to raise my voice it was okay."

How did the players react?

"Some of them were more polite around me — initially," she laughed.

"One thing that helps in my practices is that I do everything. In the warm-up run, they follow me around the field."

Does Sarah consider herself a tough coach?

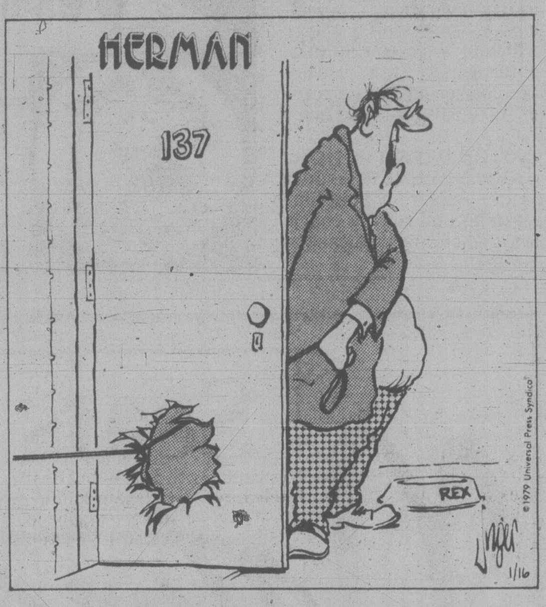
"I have to be. Otherwise they're off pretending to play ice hockey or something.

"But sometimes we have our slack practices, like the other night. It was our first practice after Christmas so we went to the pub beforehand. We worked out in the gym after that but we were sharing it with the girls' soccer team, so it was a case of wandering eyes. My players were more interested in acting as ball-boys for the soccer team than practising."

Teaching newcomers the fundamentals of a game that does not permit body contact is a challenge, but Sarah prefers coaching men.

"The level of women's field hockey in Victoria is so high I don't think I could do much for them anyway," she said, "but I like the men's attitude. They're easy to deal with in terms of emotions and, despite any lack of skills, when it comes to playing a game, they're very goal-conscious."

But then, so is the coach.



"Is this the first time he's been outside today?"

Ivy's Stretch Victory Skein

Strathcona Ivy's boosted their season record to 11 victories without a defeat Monday night by tripping Victoria Athletics 95-74 in a Victoria Senior "B" Men's Basketball League game at Victoria High School.

In another game, Techline Copy Centre battled back from a 33-25 halftime deficit to defeat Trilec Installations, 61-55.

Brian Sutherland-Brown hit for 25 points to set the pace for Ivy's, ahead by 48-37 at the break, while John Albers chipped in 14. Tom Holmes (24 points) and Duff McCaghey (15) were high for Athletics.

John Lauvaas was the over-all ace for Techline with 25 points and John Weins dunked all 13 of his points after the break to lead the comeback effort. Darrel Johnston paced Trilec with 17 points.

Starr Pact Extended

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr's contract as coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers has been extended for two years by the National Football League Club.

President Dominic Olejniczak said Starr's contract, which had been due to expire Jan. 31, 1980, now will run until that point in 1982.

It was the second extension for Starr, the former quarterback who helped lead the Packers to five NFL championships and two Super Bowl titles in the 1960s.

He was hired as coach and general manager in December, 1974.

Strong Finish

League-leading Esquimalt Maple Leafs came on strong in the final period to defeat second-place Western Homes Buckaroos 7-4 in South Island Big Six Hockey League play Monday at Memorial Arena.

The teams played to a scoreless deadlock in the first period and the count was still tied 3-3 going into the final 20 minutes.

Bill Jobson led Esquimalt with two goals and singles were added by Randy Krantz, Rob Coldwell, Gerry Caldwell, Larry Huth and Warren Smith.

John Will Remember Courteous Sponsors

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — For the want of a stamp, John Mahaffey was lost.

At least, he was lost to the Andy Williams-San Diego Open and a number of other pro golf tour events.

It goes back a year, when Mahaffey was struggling. He was a non-exempt player, fighting for his playing life, trying to rebound from troubles and injuries.

At that time, he was writing letters to tournament sponsors seeking an exemption from the qualifying rounds in their tournament. Tournament sponsors have eight non-qualifying spots they can give out.

Some of them gave Mahaffey an exemption. Some did not, writing back that they were sorry.

Others didn't even bother to reply to his letter.

Now Mahaffey, author of one of the game's more dramatic comebacks, is one of the biggest gate attractions. He holds one of the Big Four titles, the PGA national championship he won last fall. He confirmed that victory with an individual triumph in the World Cup competition last December.

And he kicked off the 1979 schedule with a one-stroke triumph over Lee Trevino Sunday in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, his fourth victory in his last 10 American starts.

And he can pick his spots. He's opting out of San Diego.

"I definitely will not play there," he said. "There is absolutely no way in the world I will play there. Absolutely no way."

"I'll play in those tournaments that wrote me back last year and said they were sorry but they'd given out all their exemptions. I won't discriminate against them.

"But the ones that didn't even bother to write me back, didn't have that courtesy, well, they won't see me."

He didn't name the other tournaments but said there were several more.

"I'm in a position where I can be a little more selective. I'm not fighting for the top 60. I have an exemption for 10 years. I can pick my spots now. I didn't want to play that much anyhow.

"And I'll remember the spots that gave me exemptions before. I'll remember those that said they were sorry. I don't have anything against them. If the spots were taken, they were taken. That's fine. They had the courtesy to write me back."

ZONE FINAL IN KELOWNA

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will meet Mexico Jan. 27-28 at Kelowna for the American zone title in international badminton competition, the Canadian Badminton Association said Monday.

An earlier news release incorrectly said the finals would be held in Moncton, N.B.

The Canadian team earned the right to meet the Mexicans with a 5-4 victory over the U.S. team in Thomas Cup competitions here Sunday.

MATCH POSTPONED

VICHY, France (AFP) — An international soccer match between France and Iran, planned for next May, has been postponed because of the present political unrest in the latter country.

Soviet Ski Sweep

BERLIN (AP) — Raissa Smetanina paced a Soviet Union sweep of the first three places Sunday as she won the five-kilometre cross-country ski race at Klingenthal, East Germany, for her second straight triumph in women's Nordic World Cup competition.

One Man's Success Story At West Brom

LONDON (Reuter) — The first year in the life of Ron Atkinson as an English First Division soccer manager has proved a remarkable success story.

It was exactly a year ago that Atkinson took charge of Midland club West Bromwich Albion and his anniversary celebration Saturday was a draw at Norwich that placed Albion at the top of the English League for the first time in 25 years.

While managing an English First Division side remains a precarious existence, Atkinson has adjusted to the job. Outwardly he is an amiable, easy-going man but there is a streak of toughness not far beneath the surface.

Atkinson, who is 38, was a player of only modest ability. But once he turned to management his talent was quickly recognized, and Albion plucked him from Third Division club Cambridge, where he had already done enough to ensure the clubs' promotion at the end of last season.

Now, 12 months later, Atkinson has a record that must be unique to a First Division newcomer. In 54 matches his team has lost only seven times and has an average approaching two goals per game.

Albion's striker Cyrille Regis is a man very much in Atkinson's mould and it was he who scored in Saturday's 1-1 draw with Norwich, ripling home a shot from outside the penalty area. Later Regis almost clinched the match for Albion when he unleashed another shot from 35 metres which hit the crossbar.

On Monday, West Brom's success continued as they moved into the fourth round of the Football Association Cup with a 4-0 rout of Coventry City.

Tony Brown scored twice while Brendan Batson and Ally Brown got the others.

Second Division leaders, Crystal Palace, foiled the chances of another First Division club, Middlesbrough, winning 1-0 at home on a first-minute goal by fullback Ken Sansom.

And there were other surprises. Aldershot of the Fourth Division sank Second Division's Sheffield United 1-0 on a penalty goal by John Dungworth six minutes from time.

Rotherham of the Third Division travelled to Manchester City for their twice-delayed match and held on for a scoreless draw, earning a replay at home Wednesday.

Arsenal, solidly entrenched in fourth place in the First Division, still could not dispose of Third Division Sheffield Wednesday, tying 2-2, in its third attempt and will need a fourth try.

On Monday at Leicester, Sheffield twice came back from a goal deficit to tie the game and neither team could score in 30 minutes of extra time. So after 330 minutes of play and eight goals, they remain inseparable.

A SMILE, A SNARL, A WAVE, OR A BAD WORD

The Coaches Corner on Sidelines TV

(Sports Commentary)

NEW YORK — "OOO . . . kay, folks, welcome back — heeyyy. We're going to run a little play now that's an old favorite of ours, and we hope it's one of yours too. It's called 'Sweep Wide Right,' and it goes something like this. Take it, offense . . ."

Maybe that is not how the average football coach will be addressing us from the sideline in the near future. But surely he will be showing us an improved on-camera presence. Set aside the case of Woody Hayes for a moment. Woody Hayes really projected. But consider what we get more often from coaches on the sidelines.

Glazed looks. Pained expressions. That's what the close-up cameras have been bringing out on head coaches' faces during the last few weekends of playoffs and bowls. How about a little smile, a little wink — some small contribution to the show? People on television are supposed to look into our eyes, fell us jokes, promise us things, smash into one another for us. It's embarrassing to stare intimately at the side of the face of a man whose principal wish seems to be that the camera bringing him to us would go away.

Sometimes players, as well, resist the camera. An occasional hard case, whose team is being humiliated, will go so far as to stare straight ahead toward the field as if his intensity is too great for him to notice that a vast audience is scrutinizing his complexion. Moments pass. The camera lingers. Finally, inevitably, comes just a hint of an irritated glance from the corner of the player's eye. Then, having waited one or two more moments for good measure, the camera finds something else to fix on.

But usually a player is glad to mug and brandish his forefinger and cry, "Hi, Mom." It's nice. It's a change of pace from the face-masking and the late hitting. Not just Mom but nearly everybody appreciates it. Sometimes a player will add a postscript that, unfortunately, few viewers are good enough at lip-reading to make out. Is it, "Don't forget to mail me some clean shirts"? Is it, "Tell Uncle Ed and everybody to get ready for something special on the next series of downs"? Is it, "Help, they're beating me half to death out there"? Why don't the networks tape microphones to those cameras?

One reason is that bad language might be picked up. Recently millions of viewers heard a college coach utter a barnyard epithet when a mike was thrust into his face just as his team lost the ball. Maybe there should be a 30-second delay on the transmission of a football game, so that things could be bleeped the way they are on the talk shows. Thirty seconds is not too long to wait for sanitized candid sound.

These technological problems can be worked out. And if coaches can learn to charm alumni, banquet crowds and hot prospects' moms, they can learn to charm TV audiences while they coach. First, however, they are going to have to get over the chilling effect of what happened to Woody Hayes.

Woody Hayes was great sidelines television. He berated officials and his players, he broke yard markers, he even strode right up to a cameraman and — wobble, jolt, blur, cut — knocked him down. That is the kind of television people remember: things that aren't supposed to be seen on television. (Bad officiating — blatantly blown calls that can be replayed again and again — is also great television. Surely that doesn't explain why there has been so much of it lately.)

But television is a consuming medium. Richard Nixon was great television. Jack Paar was great television. Where are they now? And where is Woody Hayes? He is out of work, because of television.

And, although Woody's assistants made a concerted effort to block the sidelines cameras, and the ABC announcers said they missed the whole thing at the time, an overhead camera clearly showed Woody belting a Clemson player on the sideline this past Dec. 29.

That was too much. Ohio State cancelled Woody Hayes for overexposure. TV news shows replayed his roundhouse right over and over again.

So I think that when the average football coach does get his sidelines act together, it will be something more palatable. "Heeyyy, how about that off-tackle plunge, folks? Wasn't that something? I've got to run now, got to remind the defense to tackle old Foy Gravely in such a way as to avoid reinjuring that suspect right knee of his. All right, boys, go out there and make Mom proud!"

Jobson Leader In Braves Win

Ron Jobson scored two goals, including what proved to be the winner, while sparking Saanich Braves to a 6-3 Patterson Division victory over Juan de Fuca Gulls in South Vancouver Island Junior "B" Hockey League action Monday at Juan de Fuca Arena.

Ed Beauchemin, Marty Irvine, Scott Connors and Bruce Tuck added singles for Braves, who held period leads of 2-1 and 4-1.

Mike Adamek, Terry Coughlin and Ian Fraser replied for the Gulls.

Bantam Tourney At Racquet Club

The sixth annual Racquet Club Invitational Bantam Hockey Tournament will take place this weekend with 10 teams entered in two divisions.

Playing in the Blue Division will be Saanich, Juan de Fuca, Port Alberni, Comox and the Racquet Club.

Teams will play a round-robin series in their division.

The tournament opens Friday with Saanich playing Juan de Fuca at 4 p.m. Kerry Park meets Fullers Lake at 5:45; Racquet Club plays Port Alberni at 7:30 and Nanaimo meets Powell River at 9:15.

Play continues all day Saturday and Sunday with the championship game between the Blue and Gold Division winners set for 5 p.m. Sunday.

Previous winners were Victoria McDonalds in 1974, Saanich Saunders and Hitchman in 1975 and '76 and North Shore in 1977 and '78.

Before the Judge

A Victoria cab driver who concocted a holdup story was jailed Monday for 30 days.

Leslie Vavrovics, 24, of 318-335 St. James, pleaded guilty in provincial court to a public mischief charge laid in connection with his Dec. 8 report to police he had been robbed of $57 by a knife-wielding man he picked up in his cab near a Yates Street restaurant.

Vavrorics' story ended with the man ripping out the cab's microphone before escaping into the trees in the Creed Road area of View Royal.

As a result of his complaint, the court was told, police investigated for several days. Road checks were made and a composite sketch drawn of the alleged robber.

But investigation by police revealed Vavrovics got into an altercation with another man on Yates Street over an alleged traffic offence whereupon the accused had threatened to phone police. The other man reached into the cab and ripped out the microphone before taking off with an angry Vavrovics in pursuit. The chase ended on Creed Road.

"What started out to be a normal evening ended up snowballing," Vavrovics told the court.

Because of the charge, he said he has lost his job and is having difficulties with his fiance.

Victoria lawyer Jasper Bomhof, 32, of 970 McKenzie, was acquitted by Judge Harold Alder of assault.

The charge was laid in a July 29 incident at a downtown hotel in which a security guard was injured after being struck in the knee and foot by the rear of an accelerating sports car.

Alder said there was no evidence the accused had deliberately driven into the guard as the Crown was obligated to prove in an assault charge.

However, Alder found Bomhof guilty of a charge under the Motor-Vehicle Act as being the owner of a vehicle invloved in an incident. He fined him $100.

"I think Mr. Bomhof knew something had happened. He didn't know perhaps the man had been injured," said Alder.

Bomhof testified he had been the driver of the car which the guard testified struck him but was only aware of any injuries when informed by police.

Alder had earlier questioned the pairing of two charges. The assault charge, he noted, assumes the accused to have been present while the motor-vehicle offence only assumes that he was the owner.

If the Crown felt it had enough evidence for the assault charge, it should have been able to prove he was the driver too, said Alder.

A 24-year-old unemployed Victoria man decided jail was preferable to paying a fine.

Sheldon Springer was fined $100 or 10 days in default after pleading guilty to possession of MDA.

Springer was charged after an Aug. 22 police search of his 3017 Shelbourne residence where they found a small quantity of the restricted drug in his bedroom closet.

Springer was already in custody on another matter.

Is smoking worth a criminal record? wondered Judge Alder after a retired man pleaded guilty to shoplifting.

It isn't, agreed Arthur Heal, 66, of 2500 Florence Lake, after admitting stealing a 94-cent pouch of tobacco from a Goldstream store.

Alder suspended sentence and placed Heal on three months probation to include 25 hours of community service work.

Terry Phillips was told by Alder he could have been jailed for driving Aug. 11 after being suspended a month earlier because of his driving record.

A 21-year-old man who failed to complete the impaired driver's course as part of his probation must go back and try again.

Alder placed Robert Brotherston of 1253 Goldstream on three months probation after he pleaded guilty to a breach of probation. The court was told Brotherston also had moved to Calgary without informing his probation officer.

Lonny Raymond Mitchell, 28, of 2646 Cook, was fined $500 last week and had his licence suspended four months after being convicted of criminal negligence.

Mitchell was the driver of a jeep involved in a collision with a car at Cadboro Bay and Beach Drive on Aug. 13. Four people were sent to hospital and about $7,000 damage caused.

UVic Search Begins

University of Victoria board of governors is forming a 17-member search committee to begin the process of selecting a president.

One of the first duties of the committee will be to decide if incumbent president Howard Petch should be recommended to serve another term. His first five-year term expires in June 1980.

Petch has not announced whether he would accept a second term.

Committee chairman is board of governors chairman Joseph Cunliffe. Other members on the committee include UVic chancellor Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan, the chairmen of two other board committees, and representatives of the Alma Mater Society, the Graduate Students Society and the faculty association.

The committee will follow a selection process approved by the board of governors in November and endorsed by senate in December.

It took three years for the governors to put together the selection process, which includes a ballot of all full-time faculty members if the search committee's choice is an incumbent.

A full faculty vote will also be called if the search committee selects another member of UVic's faculty for the position, but can't reach a unanimous decision.

A ballot will not be held if the committee selects a candidate from outside the university.

Historian Wins Award

A study of urban Canadian history by University of Victoria historian Dr. Alan Artibise has won a 1978 merit award from the American Association for State and Local History.

Artibise was the only Canadian to receive the award, presented for writings and illustrations on the social and urban growth of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

He will receive the award in late January at the University of Winnipeg.

Vice-Principals Off Hook

A policy placing a five-year limit on the tenure of vice-principals can't be implemented this year because it needs more work, Greater Victoria school board was told Monday.

The board approved a request by superintendent Allan Stables that the tenure-limiting policy, scheduled to start in September, be postponed one year.

Stables said the administration needs time to consider creating more leadership positions to share the adminstrative decision-making in schools with teachers.

He said several other board policies, including the way vice-principals are re-assigned teaching positions, need updating.

Three assistant superintendents have formed a committee with members of the principals and vice-principals associations.

The committee plans to meet the Greater Victoria Teachers Association, Stables said.

He said only a small number of people are involved in leadership positions and decision-making.

Phasing-in alternative positions would get over that hurdle, Stables said.

Licence Staggering Soon For New Car Purchasers

The staggered licence plate issuing system goes into effect in B.C. April 1, but it will only be for new car purchasers the first year.

Those already owning vehicles will have to purchase their 1979 insurance and licence plates before Feb. 28 as usual.

But when the new procedure is fully in effect, it will end the annual February line-ups at insurance offices and motor-vehicle branches.

After April 1, those buying a new car, or buying insurance and plates for a car that has been off the road for a while, will renew insurance the following year on the date of purchase.

A decal will be issued noting the month of expiry. The decal will be attached to the rear licence plate.

All motorists receive new plates this year.

The majority will not receive a decal as their insurance will expire Feb. 29, 1980 as usual.

B.C. Grants Made For Recreation

Two grants totalling more than $58,000 have been given to two capital region recreation projects, Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis announced Monday.

Portlock Park on Salt Spring Island near Ganges will get tennis courts, change rooms, a track, two baseball diamonds and a sprinkler system.

Sooke Athletic Association will receive a grant for two paved tennis courts and fencing around the athletic park.

The Cape Mudge Indian band on Quadra Island was granted $75,000 to help construct a museum.

The museum will allow the band to recover and display a number of artifacts which have been at the National Museum of Man in Ottawa.

Taxpayers Keep 'Ex-Spy' Cozy

TORONTO (UPC) — James Nelson is confined, probably bored and definitely not welcome in Canada. Yet the American citizen — who claims to be a CIA agent — won't leave, and Canadian authorities are puzzled and embarrassed.

The federal government is paying $47 a day for Nelson's comfort in a private hotel suite where he has spent the past two months watching color television and eating.

Paul Hardy, spokesman for the Canadian Employment and Immigration Commission, said Monday the government has spent more than $3,000 on its unwelcome guest and it was "most anxious for him to go home."

Hardy said immigration officials are "frankly puzzled" at Nelson's choice of detention in Toronto's Strathcona Hotel — where the government houses people under deportation orders — rather than a return flight home.

Moves to deport the man have been complicated "because he won't say where in the U.S. he's from. We think he's from somewhere in the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area, but we're not sure."

Nelson was detained Nov. 10 after his visitor's visa expired. He applied for refugee status and claimed he was once an undercover agent for the Central Intelligence Agency and was now being harrassed by CIA agents.

Under Canadian Immigration law, Nelson can't be deported until his refugee status has been decided. So far, no hearing date has been set.

Hardy said Nelson refuses to talk to immigration authorities other than to repeat his claim of CIA harrassment.

"We would let him out if he'd just promise to go home, but for some reason he just prefers to sit there," Hardy said. "It comes across as a little embarrassing but really we have no choice.

"Some people speculate he's staying because of his story that he is fleeing the CIA, others say maybe he's just found a comfortable place to spend the winter."

Pickets Turn Back Non-Strike Workers

SUDBURY, Ont. (UPC) — Non-striking employees have been turned back by pickets from the gate of Inco's main Sudbury plant, after talks between the company and representatives of 11,700 striking miners again broke down.

A spokesman in the United Steelworkers Local 6500 office said Monday 500 to 600 non-union clerical workers, who have been reporting to work throughout the four-month strike, were prevented from entering the plant Monday morning.

A police spokesman said a larger than usual number of pickets "supposedly told the salaried employees to take a holiday."

Union officials have identified grievance procedures as the outstanding strike issue and blamed company intransigence for Friday's breakdown.

Inco issued a terse release Friday night saying the talks broke down when the union "rejected a company proposal to settle a procedural matter concerning grievance handling," and "rejected a company proposal to set this issue aside to proceed with (other issues)."

Under current procedures, grievances are heard at the company's industrial relations office in Copper Cliff in the final stage before arbitration. The company wants to leave the final decision to the manager of the plant where the grievance originates, the union said.

OTTAWA (CP) — Spokesmen for the chartered banks expect no fall-off in credit-card buying following a decision by a leading chartered bank to raise its interest rate on unpaid Chargex balances to 21 per cent a year.

"It is generally accepted that consumers are not rate-sensitive," said Al Bates, spokesman for the Bank of Montreal's Master Charge program, in an interview Monday.

He said the Bank of Montreal is looking seriously at following the lead of the Toronto Dominion Bank in raising interest charges to card holders. He expects a decision in about a week.

Spokesmen for the other chartered banks have also indicated they are carefully reviewing the Toronto Dominion move, but are not prepared to take action yet.

The Toronto Dominion Bank announced Friday it will raise interest rates on unpaid balances to Chargex card holders by three per cent, effective April 1.

A Toronto Dominion spokesman said in an interview from head office he knew of no investigation to determine whether the move would affect credit-card buying, but the bank anticipates no significant change in volume.

He said the interest rate was raised because the bank could not make enough money at the old 18-per-cent rate. Other banks agreed with this analysis.

Speaking for the Bank of Montreal, Bates said: "We have a small profit margin (on its Master Charge program) but with present costs it can't continue."

He cited increases in postal rates, telephone rates and salaries as well as recent increases in cost the banks pay for their money as the principal costs.

Some bankers said there is a possibility more card holders will pay off their Chargex balances when they fall due to avoid the interest payments.

Bank statistics show 40 per cent of Chargex holders and 50 per cent of Master Charge holders never pay interest on their accounts. Both cards have a so-called grace period of about 25 days interest free.

For those who leave unpaid balances in their account, the interest charged is much higher than the cost of a normal consumer bank loan which runs between 13.5 and 14.5 per cent.

The new 21-per-cent annual interest rate announced by the Toronto Dominion Bank brings its rate up to the level charged by most oil companies and major department stores. A few credit cards have interest rates as high as 24 per cent.

Bank of Canada statistics show that Canadians owed their banks $1.72 billion on credit card accounts by the end of the third quarter of 1978.

NDPer Labels FIRA Sellout

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Ed Broadbent, leader of the New Democratic Party, unveiled a five-point, resources-based industrial policy Monday that calls for more bite in federal rules governing foreign takeovers of Canadian companies, and a muzzle on the export of large amounts of Canadian investment capital.

Broadbent said the mandate of the Foreign Investment Review Agency (FIRA) must be "substantially" strengthened to ensure new investment in resources is Canadian controlled.

He accused the Trudeau government of turning FIRA, since it was set up in 1974, into "nothing but a statistical clearing house for foreign takeovers."

Broadbent released a leaked cabinet document signed by Industry Minister Jack Horner in recent months, dealing with foreign takeovers of resource industries, to support his contention.

FIRA should get new responsibilities to "monitor and control" capital outflow to ensure long-term benefits to Canada, the NDP leader said.

He also wants the Canada Development Corporation to "immediately curtail" its investment in foreign companies and concentrate on joint-venture investments in Canada.

"Corporate tax policy must be changed," Broadbent asserted, to relate such measures to specific investment commitments in Canada.

The NDP leader also called for a policy review of the department of industry, trade and commerce, Export Development Corporation and the Canadian International Development Agency to determine if their programs are damaging Canadian industrial development.

From its inception in 1974 to mid-1978, FIRA had processed 1442 foreign takeover bids for Canadian firms and approved 1,188 "a batting average of four out of five," Broadbent lamented.

He said the two sectors exporting most investment capital are manufacturing and mining and said his policy was designed to "reverse the sellout of Canadian resources.

The NDP leader promised follow-up statements on mining, oil and gas, pulp and paper, fishing and manufacturing in coming weeks.

Foreign investment capital in Canada climbed from $12.9 billion in 1960 to more than $45 billion at the end of 1977, despite FIRA reviews, the NDP leader warned.

At the same time, he noted, more Canadian investment capital has been leaving the country since 1973 than foreign capital has been coming in.

WHILE THE WEATHER OUTSIDE may be frightful, in Nobleton, Ont., these three Siberian huskies apparently find it quite delightful as they wait in custom-built travelling compartment for their chance to compete in sled-dog races at Cold Creek Conservation Area.

Rolling Stone Gathers No Precedent In Edmonton Court

EDMONTON (CP) — A Provincial Court judge Monday rejected a defence counsel plea to follow the example set in the controversial Keith Richards drug case, and instead jailed a local musician for three years on a trafficking charge.

Judge R. V. Spevakow sentenced Donnie Jerry Barabash, 30, to three years after Barabash earlier pleaded guilty to possession of six grams heroin for the purpose of trafficking.

Barabash's lawyer cited the case of Richards, Rolling Stones guitarist, who was found guilty of simple possession when 22 grams of heroin were found in his Toronto hotel room.

A judge placed Richards on probation and ordered him to perform a benefit concert for the blind. The Crown is appealing the sentence.

Judge Spevakow said Barabash pleaded guilty to the more serious charge of possession for the purpose of trafficking and therefore different principles apply, calling for a jail term.

LABOR TAKEN TO COURT OVER $31 MILLION RIOT

MONTREAL (CP) — An insurance company and a government corporation, claiming losses of $31,275,000 in a 1974 riot at the James Bay hydroelectric development, began an action Monday in Superior Court to recover some of their losses.

The plaintiffs, the General Assurance Co. of Canada and the James Bay Energy Corp., have filed suit against five individuals, four union authorities and the trusteeship of Local 791 of the Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL).

Court proceedings are expected to last at least six months.

The suit relates to a rampage by an estimated 900 unionized workers at the LG-2 worksite, 1,040 kilometres northwest of Montreal.

During the two-day walkout, the workers occupied administration buildings, took control of radio-telephone communications, knocked out the camp's generators with a bulldozer, tore open fuel tanks and, using the fuel, started a fire that destroyed a quarter of the camp.

The union defendants are the America local of the International Association of Machinists, local 134 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the provincial council of construction work (QFL).

Venezuelan Oil To Keep Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — Venezuela has given assurances that it will continue to supply crude oil to Eastern Canada even though its own domestic needs are growing, Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said Monday.

After two days of talks with energy officials in the South American country, Gillespie said in a telephone interview from Caracas that production of medium and light crude oils in that country is declining.

But he was told shipment of 200,000 barrels a day, one-third of what Canada needs, will continue for the present to Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

Others in the federal delegation said, however, that with production declining and domestic needs rising, it is unclear how long the shipments can go on.

Venezuela was the second stop on a tour by Gillespie to improve security of oil imports for the East Coast. Last week he signed an agreement that could bring 100,000 barrels a day of Mexican oil into the eastern provinces by late 1980.

Red Faces on the Hill When Clock Ran Slow

OTTAWA (UPC) — There were a few red faces on Parliament Hill Monday when commissionaires reported for work and noticed the ever-dependable giant clock on the Peace Tower was three hours slow.

The commissionaires' watches seemed to be working and the sun was already shining bleakly. But the clock definitely showed it was 4.30 a.m.

The slowdown was apparently an oversight by department of public works employees who hooked up an emergency generator to back up the power supply to the Centre Block Saturday morning.

"It was simply a human error," said department spokesman Wendy Sailman. "The power was shut off for three hours Saturday and Sunday to make the connections and when the main supply was hooked up, the workmen forgot to re-set the Peace Tower clock."

Clocks inside the Centre Block were automatically re-set when the power was hooked up again but the Peace Tower clock had to be set manually.

Killed by a Computer. . . She Comes Back to Life

BURLINGTON, Iowa — Christina Smith returned to life this week, several months after a Medicare computer "killed" her and refused to change its mind. "It feels pretty good to be alive again," said the 79-year-old woman, who finally received a cheque to pay doctor bills due since May 1978. "At first I thought it was a joke," Mrs. Smith said. "But it went on and on and on — and then it was no joke. I owe the doctors nearly $500 and when Medicare stops paying, so does Blue Cross." A medical assistant for Mrs. Smith's doctor said she was "disgusted" by the computer problem. "You wonder how many old people there are out there who this might have happened to and they just sat back and were afraid to say anything," she said.

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter announced Monday that he is nominating Leonard Woodcock, former president of the United Auto Workers union, to be the first U.S. ambassador to the People's Republic of China. The move was expected inasmuch as Woodcock has served as head of the U.S. liaison office in Peking since June, 1977.

LOS ANGELES - Angie Dickinson, star of TV's Police Woman, did some under-the-covers work of her own with Star Trek's William Shatner a few years back in a soft core porn flick — little noted nor long remembered — called Big, Bad Mama. Angie might prefer to forget, but High Society magazine isn't about to permit amnesia. Featured in an upcoming issue are stills from the movie — shots of "Captain Kirk" and Burt Bacharach's one-time wife cavorting in the buff on a big brass bed. Gloria Leonard, the porno star who publishes the skin mag, says of the movie's plot, "Angie has two teen-age daughters and together they work in strip joints and go around robbing banks." Police Woman? Never!

Two works will share the general nonfiction award: Facts of Life, by Maureen Howard, and Inventing America: Jefferson's Declaration of Independence, by Garry Wills.

NIXON GETS INVITATION TO WHITE HOUSE DINNER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon is going to the White House, for the first time since his resignation, to have dinner later this month with President Carter and Teng Hsiao-ping of China.

Nixon, whose 1972 approach to China ended 22 years of estrangement between the two states, was invited by Carter, who built on Nixon's initiative by establishing full diplomatic relations with Peking.

"He was invited and he has accepted," said Mary Hoyt, press secretary to first lady Rosalynn Carter. Nixon aides in California confirmed the acceptance.

"It seemed the appropriate thing to do," a White House official said of the invitation. The official, who asked not to be named, said Nixon was invited "because of his role in opening up the process of normalization."

Nixon has not been in the executive mansion since he resigned Aug. 9, 1974, because of the Watergate scandal.

Teng, China's vice-premier, is scheduled to begin a week's tour of the United States Jan. 29 with a White House visit. The state dinner is that night.

It was not known whether Nixon will fly to Washington on a government plane. Mrs. Nixon will not come along.

Nixon has been in the capital only twice since he resigned. He was here briefly a year ago for Hubert Humphrey's funeral and again last month for a meeting of the Tuesday Group, a club of former White House co-workers.

Wayne Bouncing Back

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne is making such a fast recovery from stomach cancer surgery that he might leave the intensive care unit at UCLA Medical Centre sooner than expected, doctors said Monday.

"Progress continues to be excellent," said hospital administrator Bernard Strohm in the daily statement on Wayne's condition. "It is our hope that Mr. Wayne will be moved out of the intensive care unit sooner than expected. His vital signs remain normal and he spent a restful night."

The 71-year-old film star originally was expected to remain in intensive care until late in the week, and to be remain in hospital a minimum of two weeks.

The hospital is still getting calls from concerned fans and friends, many of whom continue to send flowers.

Wayne underwent nine hours of surgery Friday in what was originally planned as about two hours of gall bladder surgery. Surgeons removed his stomach after discovering cancer and fashioned a substitute stomach out of his intestine.

Captain America On Comeback Trail

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

Scott's World

HOLLYWOOD — Super heroes are enjoying a revival on movie screens and television tubes as evidenced by Superman, Spider-Man, Wonder Woman, The Incredible Hulk and now Captain America.

Captain America has become a two-hour television special scheduled for Friday and, may be serialized next season.

Reb Brown, who stars in the title role of Captain America, has reached his own conclusions about the growing popularity of super heroes.

Just why Brown should be be heeded in this matter of awesome import is not altogether clear, but he has a personal heroic background from which to draw.

Brown, whose first name is an acronym of his full monicker — Richard Edward Brown — was an all-state basketball, football and baseball star at his Temple City, Calif., high school.

He was a promising varsity running back who sought other pastures when O.J. Simpson turned up for practice.

Today, at age 30, Brown stands 6-foot-3 and weighs 220 muscular pounds. He is blond, blue-eyed and unnecessarily handsome.

Philosophically, as well as physically, Brown is type cast for Captain America. He is staunchly patriotic, a former Los Angeles County deputy sheriff, and convinced that his fellow citizens are turning to super heroes as an expression of faith in the American way.

"The American people are getting back into family and marriage and heroes they can look up to in the entertainment field and sports," he says.

Brown quit his deputy sheriff job almost 10 years ago to sign an acting contract with Universal Studios. Between acting assignments he worked as a bouncer in tough gin mills and became an amateur heavyweight boxer, winning 14 of 16 bouts.

Although Captain America cannot fly like Superman, scale skyscrapers like Spider-Man, nor pilot a batmobile like Batman, he is five times as strong as other men and five times as smart.

"Actually, he is the son of the original Captain America and reluctant to take on the physical attributes of his father," Brown said, his voice rising with, excitement.

"He's an artist, a painter, who comes out of the service to travel around the country. He's a sensitive human being, not a cartoon.

"He is a model for youth who can do a lot of good by setting an example for impressionable minds. He creates a lot of positive feelings."

Public Announcement

Ottawa, January 5, 1979

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission has become increasingly aware of a growing public opposition to the broadcasting by private stations of commercial messages promoting feminine hygiene products on television.

At recent public hearings in Vancouver and Winnipeg the Commission was presented with petitions, letters and coupons from 83,000 members of the public complaining about this type of advertising. The Commission has also received over 1,200 letters and petitions from individuals, groups and organizations on this same subject within the last two months.

While the Commission considers that the final responsibility for the acceptance of any advertising material lies with the individual broadcasters, it will immediately initiate discussions with broadcasters and the appropriate advertisers to determine the most feasible method for resolving this issue.

Acting Secretary General.

Traffic Clogging Roads In Strikebound U.K.

LONDON (CP) — Lines of bumper-to-bumper automobiles choked roads leading into London and other major British cities today as millions of rail commuters were forced to take to the highways because of a national rail strike.

Meanwhile, tons of foodstuffs were piling up on docks as the week-long national truckers strike continued, forcing major industries to close because of a lack of essential materials. Both strikes involve demands for more money.

Prime Minister James Callaghan, seeking to restrict pay increases in the fight against inflation, maintained that 80 per cent of Britain's food needs were being delivered despite the truckers' strike but other reports disputed the government's figures.

The Confederation of British Industry estimated that by the end of the week about one million of Britain's 24 million workers may be laid off as more industries grind to a halt.

As the truckers' strike entered its fifth day, there was confusion over whether strikers were abiding by their union's decision to limit secondary picketing of firms not involved in the dispute.

Many ports were crippled by lack of transport and industrialists have warned that factories short of raw materials may lay off one million more workers by the end of the week.

While the government wants to limit wage increases to five per cent, truck drivers are asking for a 22-per-cent increase and have turned down a 15-per-cent offer.

The Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU) said Monday night that many companies are giving in and granting the raise, a claim strongly denied by the employers' Road Haulage Association.

Rail workers went on strike at midnight Monday night over a pay claim with the threat of another stoppage on Thursday. Disruption of services is expected to extend well into Wednesday and the secretary of state for transport, William Rodgers, has appealed to the public to try to walk or cycle to work and to motorists to give free lifts.

The mounting anti-union public feeling in an election year is a clear cause of concern for the Labor party. Conservative leader Margaret Thatcher has talked of curbing union powers if she wins a general election Callaghan must call by October.

Second Arrest In Gun Theft, Shooting

A second person has been arrested in connection with the theft of four handguns from the SPCA shelter on Burnside Sunday and a subsequent incident at a nearby motel in which a shot was fired.

Victoria police said a 19-year-old youth was picked up at his home Monday night.

He is to appear in provincial court charged with breaking and entering and possession of stolen property.

Motel manager Tae Kwon got into a tussle with three youths and managed to hold one until police arrived. The other two ran off.

Scant Comfort for Vietnam

Washington Post

UNITED NATIONS — The Soviet Union Monday vetoed a UN resolution calling for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Cambodia, thus ending the emergency Security Council session on the Vietnamese and insurgent invasion of Cambodia.

Although the compromise reolution was vetoed, as predicted, opponents of the Vietnamese military action said the four-day debate "at least showed the Vietnamese they will have to pay a price for what they have done," said a Western diplomat. The vote was 13-2 in favor of the resolution, with Czechoslovakia joining the Soviets in opposition.

Vietnam, which once enjoyed widespread support here, was backed only by the Soviet Union, Cuba and some other Soviet-bloc nations during the debate.

All the other nations that spoke, whether African, Asian, Latin American or Western, protested the Vietnamese-led invasion even though many also condemned as inhuman the policies of the ousted Cambodian communist government.

It fell to Prince Norodom Sihanouk, former heab of state of Cambodia, to argue for Cambodia at the debate even though he was released from house imprisonment by the Pol Pot government only two weeks ago.

This was the first time that the Soviet Union and China were antagonists in a Security Council debate over a communist country. The United States kept on the sidelines, allowing the communist world to argue over who is trying to establish "hegemony" in southeast Asia.

The insults exchanged among the communist nations — Vietnam, Cuba and Cambodia as well as the Soviet Union and China — were so fierce that at the Friday session the Kuwait ambassador asked Sihanouk to end a particularly bitter argument with cuba.

Cuba and Vietnam, not Council members, were invited to join the debate.

As U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young said on Saturday, the Cambodian-Vietnamese conflict raised a "cloud of confusion" because the Pol Pot governmet has been charged by the U.S. Commission on Human Rights with extreme violations, such as summary executions and deaths from malnutrition and disease.

SHAH OFF IN TEARS WHILE MOBS DANCE

"We hereby inform foreign banks that all those monies taken from Iran by the shah, his family and his henchmen are public property and must be returned to Iran," his statement said. "The Iranian government will take legal action to arrange the transfer."

Soldiers, meanwhle, stood by uneasily — the military has pledged it will not launch a coup — as Tehran erupted into a massive victory celebration when news of the shah's departure spread.

Within minutes, tens of thousands of Iranians poured into the streets. They laughed and chanted, hugged and kissed, exchanged candy, danced atop cars and waved portraits of Khomeini. Thousands of vehicles, horns blaring, headlights flashing, windshield wipers waving wildly with colored streamers, blocked all city streets.

There were continuing signs of anti-Americanism. Some demonstrators brandished signs saying, "Now the shah is dead, it is the turn of the United States."

"I have been feeling exhausted and need a rest," he told reporters at Tehran's international airport.

He said he would stay a few days in Aswan, Egypt — where he arrived four hours later — but gave no further details of his travel plans. He said his eventual return would depend on his health.

But highly placed sources said it looked as if the shah's 38-year rule was over and he probably would not return.

Persistent reports said the shah would seek sanctuary in the 900-acre walled estate of U.S. multi-millionaire Walter Annenberg in Palm Springs.

Reports from Lubbock, Texas, said three of the shah's children and his mother-in-law arrived at nearby Reese Air Force Base to await the shah and his wife, empress Farah Diba.

In an emotional scene at the airport, the shah knelt and kissed the ground. A soldier then kissed the shah's feet.

In a brief farewell message, the 59-year-old shah appealed to Iranians to support Bakhtiar's civilian government which he said could "correct the past and consolidate the future."

"There's need for the greatest patriotism and cooperation for some time to come," he said.

TRAFFIC DEATHS TO BE PROBED

A coroner's inquiry will be conducted in the death of a Victoria motorist early Monday when his car crashed into a wall at Ryan and Roseberry.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said it appeared driver Gordon Ash, 56, of 2741 Asquith, had suffered a heart seizure.

Meanwhile, Jan. 25 has been set for a formal inquest into the death of two youths in a fiery crash Saturday night in Saanich.

Spencer Glen Larson, 18, of 2370 Weiler, who was driving, and Dale Robert Storey, 15, of 911 Cloverdale, died in the wreckage on Claremont east of Patricia Bay Highway. Three companions are in critical condition with burns.

An inquest tonight will inquire into the death of Oak Bay Manor resident Florence Young, 78, found early Sunday on a roof at the manor after being reported missing.

An inquest into the death of Royal Jubilee Hospital patient Edward Jones, 89, will be completed Wednesday, St. Jorre said.

On Thursday the coroner's jury will be charged in an inquiry into the death of pedestrian Peter Baker, 46, 1738 Jefferson, struck by a car in Oak Bay in December.

Inquests are set for Jan. 23 for Oak Bay Manor resident Glenella Hardy, 88, struck by a car in front of the institution; and Jan. 24 for Yee Yee Lew, 68, of Vancouver, struck by a car on Shelbourne.

All inquests start at 7:30 p.m. in the small claims court at the Law Courts on Burdett.

Anshelm said today he applied for a mediator Monday because the Joint Negotiating Committee, representing employees in Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich, the school board and city outside workers, is stalling.

He said both parties met last week but the committee didn't present all its demands and in particular, there were no wage proposals or a proposal for the term of the agreement.

But JNC spokesman Jim Walker, president of Local 50, which represents city outside workers, said today the reason the wage proposals have not been presented is that the situation has been changed by recent B.C. government actions.

He referred to the government edict that municipalities must place a five-percent ceiling on their budget increases as well as legislation placing all the CUPE locals under the terms of the Essential Services Disputes Act.

Walker said the committee is prepared to meet to discuss the other proposals.

"If anybody is stalling it is Anshelm. We are willing to sit down for two days at a time, or whatever is needed."

The contracts for the CUPE members expired Dec. 31. The GVLRA is proposing a two-year contract with a six-per-cent increase in each year.

Doyle said his local has only had two meetings with Anshelm in the past five weeks and in both cases Anshelm appeared "upset and insulting".

He said Anshelm has just returned from a three-week holiday in Palm Springs and although the time off was understandable he shouldn't come back and immediately attack the unions for stalling.

"As far as I'm concerned he is the one that is stalling."

Anshelm said he met with Doyle Monday, gave him a copy of the proposals the GVLRA has presented to the JNC and suggested that the Local 50 bargaining committee meet with him.

He said he has asked for a meeting with Local 50 before but has had no response.

Doyle denied this saying he phoned Anshelm Thursday to arrange a meeting and has had no response.

He said it is not good enough for the GVLRA manager to present Local 50 with the proposals for the joint bargaining committee because the city inside workers have nothing to do with the JNC.

"He's just stalling. It's all double-talk."

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO CBers IN BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE YUKON

We're computerizing CB licensing to serve you better

In the interest of more efficient handling of the 80,000 new and renewal General Radio Service (CB) licence applications processed annually by the Pacific region of the Department of Communications, we're converting to a computerized, mail-in licensing system.

Effective February 1st, 1979, CBers residing in British Columbia and the Yukon only will no longer apply to DOC offices for their radio licences. Instead, completed application forms and cheques should be mailed directly to the national GRS licensing centre in Ottawa, at this address:

Department of Communications
GRS Licensing Centre (General)
Postal Station D
Box 2798
Ottawa, Ontario
K1P 6H4

Application forms and pamphlets containing complete information will be available at most stores selling CB equipment, as well as from district offices of the department and many GRS clubs.

Licence renewal notices will continue to be mailed out automatically to current licensees. Renewal fees and invoices should be mailed to the address on the notice.

Scott in drawing room scene

Hatley Castle Goes Hollywood

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

A FAMILY OF RACCOONS living in a tree behind Hatley Park manor, now part of Royal Roads Military College, knew something unnatural was occurring.

Bright lights had turned night into day and coiled cables and repeated wails from ambulance sirens had disrupted their evening inspection of the garbage cans, usually a quiet routine conducted under cover of darkness.

The raccoons' home had been invaded by a movie crew and they had wandered on to the set.

Several important scenes in The Changeling, a gothic horror film starring George C. Scott, Trish Van Devere and Melvyn Douglas, were shot in and around Hatley Park last week.

The cast and crew of the $7 million Canadian production arrived at the military college Thursday morning and spent three days shooting.

Phoney police cars with paste-on decals and state of Washington licence plates and an ambulance were part of a noisy external sequence shot Thursday.

The lawn was tilled into a muddy mess by hundreds of pairs of feet belonging to technicians, prop managers, script supervisors, production consultants, assistant directors, film editors, sound mixers and several excited, autograph-seeking teen-agers.

But Friday the set was as hushed as a hospital ward for the movie's most crucial scene — a confrontation between Scott and Douglas involving five-and-a-half pages of dialogue.

At the insistence of Scott and out of deference to the frail, 77-year-old Douglas, director Peter Medak ordered a closed set.

The film is being made by a independent Canadian company, Chessman-Park productions, (which just finished another Canadian movie called Silent Partners, starring Donald Sutherland and will dissolve after this one is completed), and is financed entirely by Canadian investors.

Most of the supporting cast is Canadian.

About 95 per cent of the 150 crew members are stage and movie technicians recruited from Vancouver, Calgary and Toronto.

Local amateur actors were hired to play neighbors and even some of the staff at the military academy were asked to be extras.

Dunn was in three scenes, including one where he takes Scott's coat.

He said his movie debut was exciting, but not traumatic.

"The crew was very professional, they just told me what to do," while waiting in the wings for his cue.

The film has a tight 50-day shooting schedule.

Several days shooting has already taken place in New York and Seattle where the movie is supposed to take place.

But most of the action will be filmed in Vancouver. A huge false-fronted Victorian manor constructed for $200,000 will be used as home of Scott, a composer who suddenly discovers he's living in a haunted house.

The interior scenes will be shot on an elaborate group of sets built inside West Vancouver's new Panorama Studios.

Vancouver was selected as the movie's main location to take advantage of the area's natural beauty and the federal government's generous tax shelter.

Location manager Rondi Johnson said Hatley Park is perfect as the home of Douglas, who plays an influential U.S. senator implicated in a series of dramatic supernatural events.

The stonework, huge fireplaces and heavy wood panelling convey a sense of power, she said.

An agreement was worked out with armed forces headquarters in Ottawa, a procession of trailers and vans arrived, the generator was set up and the crew unloaded lights and cameras.

The crew started preparing around noon Thursday for two brief scenes. They finished shooting just after midnight.

One sequence, where Douglas is removed from the house on a stretcher and put in an ambulance, will last about 30 seconds in the movie, but took five hours to film.

Each scene was shot using several different camera angles and each camera angle required a lighting change. All the sequences were rehearsed repeatedly using stand-ins until the timing was perfect.

Then the stars emerged from make-up and the cameramen started actual filming.

BETWEEN TAKES, Scott appeared in a faded maroon bathrobe to discuss his scenes with Medak, but didn't talk to anyone else on the set.

Several crew members said Scott didn't like socializing while working on a character and spent most of his spare time going over the script or playing cribbage in his trailer.

There was no sign between scenes of Van Devere or veteran actor Douglas, who was making his first screen appearance in four years.

A member of the production company said Douglas, who made his movie debut 50 years ago as a leading man opposite Gloria Swanson, wasn't feeling well during the shooting.

The company flew back to Vancouver Saturday to continue filming until mid-February.

Hostility of Trustees Boils Over at Meeting

Trustees manned the trenches with undisguised hostility for a bout of name-calling over a change in Camosun College appointments first proposed by new chairman Carol Pickup last week.

During the hour-long feud the chair was challenged twice over alleged conflict of interest and accused of stifling debate.

Reference was made to witchhunts of the 1950s and at one point a trustee compared the meeting to a kindergarten classroom.

But in the end Pickup's proposed appointment changes were approved by a five-four vote.

The board approved the hotly-contested appointments of trustees Dr. Martin Levin and Mary Breer, non-trustee Beryl Young and former trustee Dr. Hal Knight to the college board.

Brice appointed herself, Yorke and Fisher to the college council in December. The appointments were challenged by Pickup, who accused Brice of helping Education Minister Pat McGeer push them through before the new board took office in January.

An amendment substituting Susan Brice for Beryl Young was defeated by the same five-four split.

Yorke twice called for votes of non-confidence and both times Pickup voted to sustain the chair.

A request by Yorke to introduce new information of an "urgent and important nature" affecting the appointments was ruled out of order by Pickup.

"You, madam chairman, as far as I'm concerned, are completely ignoring any free speech. You have ruined any good spirit this board ever had," Yorke charged.

Repeated efforts by Brice, Yorke and Trustee Glyn Williams to introduce new information they said would prove Pickup and vice-chairman Levin had conflicts of interest in connection with the college appointments were ruled out of order.

But Yorke spoke up anyway. He said a conflict of interest that prevented Pickup from sitting on the college board last year still applies and should prevent her from making appointments.

Pickup, whose husband works for Camosun, denied the conflict charge and said she wasn't making the appointments, but submitting names to the board for its approval.

Yorke also charged that appointee Beryl Young is the wife of Levin's boss and should't receive the college position.

Levin, a University of Victoria political science professor, countered by saying Walter Young is chairman of the department, not his employer.

"These unpleasant and insidious accusations are out of keeping with the spirit of the board," Levin said.

"I've seen these tactics used in witchhunts in the '50s. I'd hate to see them imported into the district," he said.

Yorke termed Pickup's limit on debate "abhorrent" and Brice said she was vehemently opposed to the way Pickup was conducting the meeting.

"Trustees should have the opportunity to have all their questions answered whether it takes two nights or 20 nights," Brice said.

A tight-lipped Williams said Pickup's refusal to allow debate on the conflict of interest items was a serious violation of the principles of consultation and free speech.

Fisher said Pickup was "making a mockery of the concept of representation and accountability."

Winfield Mott, silent during most of the battle, commented that the board meeting reminded him of kindergarten.

"When do we get around to talking about education," he asked.

Man Held In Oak Bay Drug Find

The man, in his early 20s, will appear in provincial court.

Police arrested the suspect Monday after a three-hour stake-out of bush near the University of Victoria campus where a cache of drugs was found earlier in the day by an RCMP tracking dog.

Police were called to the area after a UVic security officer spotted two men at 3:20 p.m. Sunday emerging from the bush off Ring Road about 100 feet south of the university directory and stopped them for questioning.

Oak Bay police were called in and the men explained they had been out jogging the day before and lost something in the bush.

A police spokesman said the story was regarded as semi-plausible until it was learned one of the men was a drug taker and had a record of breaking and entering.

The police dog was brought down, the next morning and found a package hidden in the bush.

Constable R.W. Jones started a stake-out of the area at 2:30 p.m. and at 5:15 p.m. the suspect returned.

Later in the evening Jones, Constable Barry Parker and two Victoria police detectives went to a house in Esquimalt where they seized about $1,500 worth of jewelry.

Police are now attempting to determine ownership of the jewelry.

TOWN TALK

Teacher Angus Whitmore claims the expansion of Camosun College is going to increase his home heating bills.

Whitmore and his wife Junett last month bought a house on Argyle Avenue, immediately across the road from a property on the college's Lansdowne campus which is proposed for development.

They were initially led to understand that the new building would be about 35 feet tall, but have since learned that ventilation towers at the four corners will be 50 feet high.

In letters to Camosun College Council and Saanich council, the couple claim the structure "like Fort Knox" will tower over their home, shutting out winter sunlight.

"Camosun College would be imposing extra heating costs upon us," Whitmore told Saanich aldermen Monday night.

Council referred the matter to its Advisory Design Panel.

Movie stars don't always dine on champagne and caviar, patrons of Bob's Burgers in Colwood discovered Friday when screen actor George C. Scott strolled in for a bite.

Scott, in Victoria for three days to film a gothic horror movie, The Changeling at Royal Roads Military Academy, was taking a supper break with the cast and crew.

He was accompanied by wife Trish Van Devere and veteran actor Melvyn Douglas, also starring in the movie. They helped themselves to a smorgasbord while awe-struck fans in the next room forgot to finish their hamburgers.

The B.C. director of the TV religous program 100 Huntley Street has denied a claim that cash from the program goes to fund two anti-gay organizations.

Not so, says Frank Funk, in an emphatic denial of a statement by Nancy Goldsberry of the Victoria Female Lesbian Action Group.

Goldsberry said cash from the show went to both the Anita Bryant Crusade and Renaissance International. Both organizations have been vocal in campaigning against full civil rights for homosexuals.

They apparently like the warm feeling of close fellowship that comes when too many bodies are crammed into too small a space.

It's the only possible explanation for the fact that well-attended evening committee meetings continue to be held in a small, poky committee room while the spacious council chamber next door remains in empty darkness.

At a recent meeting of the finance and legislative committee the body count was 41 (15 aldermen and officials seated at the big table, 23 members of the public and three reporters) — all stuffed into a room about 30 feet by 15.

It was rather reminiscent of a Guinness record attempt, or one of those television commercials where several commuters jammed sweatily together in a tiny car glare at each other accusingly.

What at first appeared to be a local bout of legionnaire's disease surfaced Friday at the centre run for elderly Fernwood residents at 1325 Pembroke by the Fernwood Autumn Glow Society.

Joe Haegert, 77, said first to be smitten was John Bryce, an incentive worker at the centre. Haegert took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Senior citizen Marion Fox was the next to become ill but she got herself to hospital.

Haegert says when other guests began to feel dizzy and faint he suspected a furnace leak and called B.C. Hydro.

He says Hydro responded immediately, found a faulty burner on the centre's gas stove and replaced it.

B.C. and Alaska locations will be ports of call for a special in ABC-TV's Love Boat series, says the show's producer.

Gordon Farr said the special will be filmed in late spring aboard the tourship Pacific Princess, the ship used for most of the show's episodes.

'Oh, That's Just the Mayor Counting Parking Spaces'

Mayor Mike Young will visit family restaurants and count parking spaces for the next two weeks to back up a theory he has about how many spaces are necessary in relation to the number of customer seats.

Young delayed a restaurant development proposed for Government and Gorge because there are only 22 parking spaces for the 140-seat restaurant.

Representatives for Bino's, a 24-hour pancake house operation, said research had shown that was all the parking needed to make the operation viable.

But Young didn't believe it and said "I'm going to go out and start counting parking spaces myself."

The proposal will come back before the lands-use committee in two weeks, after the mayor's research is completed.

New Image for Old Books

The books section of the Auxiliary to the Retarded's Wee Bit Worn Shoppe has recently taken on a brand new image.

No longer is it crowded in with dresses, hats, shoes and whatevers in the main shop at the corner of Gladstone Avenue and Fernwood Road.

Its books are spread out, neatly labelled and well displayed in a store on the opposite corner of Gladstone Avenue.

It's staffed by auxiliary volunteers. And, as in the past, all proceeds will be added to those of the Wee Bit Worn Shoppe and used to help the auxiliary with the many projects it maintains for the retarded.

The move has been in the minds of auxiliary members for some time.

"We simply couldn't display the many books that are donated to us on the few shelves alloted in the main shop," Miss Laing explained.

"Nor could we offer those interested in our books a place to browse in that crowded space. We had only one chair and that had to be shared with people wishing to try on shoes."

Trouble was to find a suitable location for the move.

"Then, all of a sudden, there it was — right across the street."

An old building on that opposite corner had been taken over and renovated by George and Pat Muldrew.

He opened a laundromat in the building and she, a small coffee shop.

Snuggled in between was a vacant store with a big display window.

"We kept looking at it, wondering about it and finally we asked about it," Miss Laing says.

The Muldrews explained it had been earmarked for a tenant who had to back out at the last minute and that it was again available.

That news raised a whole series of questions.

Rent, maintenance costs, equipment, all were thoroughly gone into.

Finally an agreement was reached with the Muldrews and the auxiliary decided to take over the store.

Three good strong tables (one made by a husband of an auxiliary member) and several small bookcases were rounded up.

A kitchen counter was donated and is being used as a desk. The chairs that came with it are also in the new shop.

Miss Laing, formerly assistant librarian and head of the reference department at Victoria Public Library, is in charge of the books section and has sorted, arranged and priced all the books in the new location.

To augment the several bookcases she has used various sized boxes as a means of separating fiction and non-fiction, hard covers from paper backs and subject from subject.

One large bookcase holds nothing but magazines. There is also a "yesteryears" table with a selection (mostly fiction) of books popular from the 20s to the 40s.

Kiddies books? Miss Laing shakes her head.

"We do have a few," she says, "but by the time most of them reach us they've been well read, well thumbed and are not in any condition to sell."

Canadiana and cook books are very popular. Here again Miss Laing warns "while we do have small selections in these categories, they are nearly always in short supply."

On the other hand she suggests that anyone looking for a good encyclopedia "and willing to settle for an older printing", might find real bargains as compared with prices of today's editions.

Although the shop has only been open a little over two months, it already has a regular clientele that includes young people as well as "a good sprinkling" of adults and senior citizens.

Prices are reasonable in nearly every instance but Miss Laing makes it quite clear that "if a book is out of print and is on a popular wanted list, the price must be comparable."

This interesting little book mart is open the same days and same hours as the main shop across the street — Tuesday to Friday inclusive, from 10 am. to 4 p.m.

If you are a lover of books, a collector, or just someone who likes to browse a bit before selecting something to read, you could do no better than drop in.

POSTSCRIPT — The Wee Bit Worn Shoppe grew from a small clothing depot in the basement of the Winifred M. Clark Centre for the Retarded, when it was on Elford Street.

It opened at its present location in April, 1972.

Still among the volunteers are women who started the basement enterprise, including Mrs. (Nonie) D'Arcy McGee and Mrs. (Shelagh) Martin Ellis, who are in charge of the project at present.

Over the years the shop has become the biggest money-maker on the auxiliary's yearly program.

To maintain that standard it needs your donations of clothing and household goods.

Indeed, anything that can be re-sold.

By L. L. Coleman, MD

Dear Dr. Cotter: I think I have a problem. I am 19 and I have been going out with a young man for over a year. We have often talked about marriage, but my problem is that where I work there is another young man who I also like, and I have gone out with him and we both enjoyed ourselves. But whenever my old boyfriend is around I almost go crazy because I like him, too.

I like both these men but cannot seem to stick to one. Sooner or later I will have to settle down. But does this mean that I will never be able to love someone deeply?

Answer: Your situation is not desperate. To love more than one person should be a good sign. Your problem is that you are bothered about "falling in love" with more than one person. That is to be expected, because the kind of love we "fall" into is an accidental, hap-hazard kind of love that controls us rather than we controlling it.

There is another kind of love — the love which you intend and determine with all your personality, which brings commitment and which continues in the face of disaster and disappointment.

In your situation, one love is an old one known on the basis of recreation together and the new one has been found through working together. This may give you the opportunity to choose something about your lifestyle — whether you want a career parallel to a husband's or whether you want to be a "little woman."

Dear Dr. Powell: I am a 15-year-old boy in high school and I would like to know if it is normal to masturbate with yourself. I have had sexual intercourse with girls.

Answer: Masturbation is a normal activity. It is known that most males masturbate at some time in their lives and many women do, too. Usually masturbation is performed when a person is alone but it can be done when another person is present.

As far as can be determined, masturbation is not harmful and does not cause any serious effects. Despite this, in the past, masturbation was considered to be harmful and a serious sin. As a result people felt very guilty and worried about the serious effects it would have on them. Now it is considered harmless and a normal part of sexual expression.

Dear Mr. Vichert: I am a 13-year-old girl with a very big problem. I just found out the guy I like most who is in Grade 10, is homosexual.

I have been out with him three or four times and the things he does do not resemble the acts of a homosexual person. Should I ask him if he's gay? What should I do?

Answer: Whether he is gay or not is something for him to tell you. How he feels about himself is a private matter and everyone is entitled to personal privacy. The important aspect of your relationship at this time is that you like him — and he must like you also if you have been out with him three or four times.

If you believe he is gay, only because other people have said so, then I would advise you to disregard gossip and believe in the reasons that you like him. If there is a good feeling of trust between you, and he is gay, he may at some time talk to you about it, but in the meantime since it hasn't worried you before I wouldn't let it worry you now.

Your goal should not be to control your child but for your child to learn self-control. So says the four-page leaflet Why Won't She Listen To Me?

Some disobedience is natural. It is a result of a child's curiosity, her/his enthusiasm, new friends and changing conditions. However, your child has to learn to co-operate with family and friends.

The leaflet offers general guidelines on how you can help your child learn self-control. For instance, your child should at all times feel that you love her/him. When you must correct or criticize, say 'that was a bad thing to do' rather than 'you are a bad girl/boy'. Be friendly but firm. Trust your child within the limits you set. Even if she/he complains, deep down she/he will appreciate that you love her/him enough to have set certain rules. Firmness with love is the best approach. Of course, you should also set a good example.

Much more practical advice on how to help your child gain self-control and thereby develop a healthy personality is included in the leaflet.

With your request for the leaflet please enclose a long (No. 10) self-addressed, stamped envelope and send it to: Canadian Mental Health Association, 2160 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M4S 2Z3.

Please indicate your postal code and allow at least two to three weeks for delivery.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

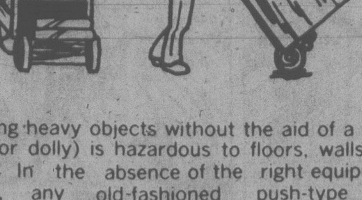
HELLO, DOLLY...



Moving heavy objects without the aid of a hand-truck (or dolly) is hazardous to floors, walls, and fingers. In the absence of the right equipment, though, any old-fashioned push-type lawn mower — flipped upside down so the blades don't engage the ground and with the load supported by the wooden roller — can handle most jobs nicely. Furthermore, a cross brace bolted on halfway up the handle makes an easily removable support and a handy place to attach a security strap.

DEAR ABBY: Hello again. I'm the Manhattan attorney who wrote to you some time ago regarding an individual's right to keep unsolicited goods without paying for same.

Another letter in your column on a legal matter prompts a word of advice: it was Mrs. M's idea to photograph each of her valuable items and, on the back of each picture, write the name of the person to whom she wished to bequeath it. Her idea is totally without value; pesonal property may be given after one's death only by a legal document called a last will and testament. Please inform your readers that Mrs. M.'s plan will not work. Respectfully, — GEORGE PINSLEY.

DEAR GEORGE: Thanks for the valuable legal advice which I'll pass on to my readers. (P.S. If I'm sued for practicing law without a licence, will you represent me?)

DEAR ABBY: What can I do about a husband and father of three boys who refuses to use a deodorant? He claims that the odor of perspiration is "masculine" and only sissies and women use underarm deodorants. You can imagine the embarrassment he causes the boys and me.

He works in a factory and plays softball every evening. To make matters worse, he now refuses to bathe daily. He bathes only once a week, and sometime it's two weeks between baths! He claims too much bathing is bad for the skin.

I have run out of ideas. He sweats like a horse and I can smell him 20 feet away. He reads your column every day and thinks you're smart. Maybe you can help me. Thank you.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: I'm stumped, too. A person who refuses to bathe or use deodorant deserves to be shunned. So if he refuses to clean up his act, let him do a single.

By MICHAEL LAMM

DEAR MIKE: I bought a used 1969 Grand Prix with steel-belted radial tires. The car rides hard. A mechanic friend who works for a Pontiac agency says that in 1972 the factory issued a bulletin saying not to use steel-belted radials on older cars because the chassis isn't tuned for them. Yet I understand that steel-belted radials give better handling. Should I go back to bias-ply tires for a softer ride? — CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED: I wouldn't. The better handling and greater wear of steel-belted radials are worth the slightly jiggly ride.

DEAR MIKE: I recently bought a dry-charged battery. After adding the acid, I still had quite a bit left over. Should I use the remaining acid to top off the battery cells when they get low? — WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: No — discard the acid by sealing it in the plastic bag it came in and then putting it into a coffee can for garbage pickup. Never pour battery acid down a sewer or onto the ground.

'Tinnitus' Annoying And Cause Can Vary

Around 1970 I was working in a testing area for the manufacture of large airplanes. One day, I was delivering a part to one of the planes on the field when, all of a sudden, the motors were revved up to full power. I put my fingertips to my ears, but apparently before I did something had already happened. Since that day I have had a constant ringing in my left ear. It sounds like the singing of electricity through a power line. When I am tired it gets especially bad. Is there anything that can be done for such a condition? — Mr. G.W.H.

DEAR MR. H.:

Whether or not there is any relationship between the revving up of motors and the noise in your ear (called "tinnitus") can, at best, be speculative. There may be a causal relationship, or, it might be purely concidental. In any case, you are left with a most distressing and anoying condition.

Occasionally, persistent noise may be due to high blood pressure, narrowing of the blood vessels, or associated with hearing impairment.

In your own community, there is an excellent hearing centre at the University of Washington. Complete evaluation of your problem, with audiometric and electronic devices may, perhaps, reveal a specific reason for the noise. If this is eliminated, the tinnitus may be modified in intensity, or even eliminated. If acuoustic trauma (injury by noise) was, indeed, the cause, attention could be directed to that phase of your problem.

An additional thought must be directed to all those people who work in a high-noise environment. Protective devices must always be worn.

What illnesses would prevent someone from traveling by ship? Most cruise ships have doctors, but some freighters do not. They ask for a medical statement from a doctor. Could a shipping company turn down a person for medical reasons? — Mrs. J. F.

DEAR MRS. F.:

In the interest of safety, I'm quite sure that a shipping company would not want to take on the burden of a sick person, or even one with a chronic debilitating condition.

The solution to this problem does not lie with the shipping company, but rather with you. If one has an illness that demands the constant supervision of a doctor, then certainly a freighter without a medical department would not be an ideal choice for travel.

Sometimes people "pressure" their doctors into giving them a statement to satisfy a company's requirements. This is bad judgment, for it there is an emergency, who is fooling whom?

My little girl, now 4 years old, was born with an extra nipple below her left breast. The doctor thinks it can be easily removed. As a cancer-conscious person, I am concerned that this can lead to trouble. Can it? — Mrs. N.M.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Let me assure you that there is absolutely no justification for your anxiety since there is almost no glandular tissue beneath the extra nipple. The operation is easily performed; the scar will be barely perceptible.

It's interesting to know that many children, boys and girls, are born with one or more extra nipples that extend in a vertical line beneath the breast. This congenital throwback has interested genetitics for a long time.

Aside from the cosmetic aspects of the problem, there are no medical implications to these supernumerary nipples.

Empty Feeling

OTTAWA (CP) — If the thief was after beer when he stole a beer truck, he was disappointed. The driver left the vehicle, with keys in it, for just a moment but when he returned it was gone. Later the truck, and its cargo of empty beer bottles, was found abandoned.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - two of hearts.

Good defensive play is mostly a matter of plain common sense. A defender nearly always has all the clues he needs to achieve the best result. Most of all, a defender should not permit himself to be governed by rigid rules. He should not always return partner's suit; he should not always play second-hand low or third-hand high; he simply should not always play by rote. Instead, he should deal specifically with each brand new situation as it comes along.

Consider this case where it would be easy to go wrong. West leads a heart, on which dummy plays the nine. If East makes the mistake of playing the queen, South easily makes three notrump.

Covering the nine with the queen allows declarer to make two heart tricks instead of only one, and South breezes home with nine tricks. There can be no recovery for the defense.

But if East ducks the nine of hearts (at the same time signaling with the seven to show interest in the suit), South must eventually lose three heart tricks and the two minor aces and go down one.

Ducking the nine violates the general rule of third-hand high — but the situation demands it. East knows from the lead of the deuce that West has precisely two. These can be either A-K, A-x, K-x, or x-x.

In the first and third cases, playing the queen costs a trick; in the second case, East's play does not matter because South has two heart stoppers whatever East plays. The only time the queen play gains a trick is when declarer has x-x, but this possibility is very remote — considering that South opened the bidding with one notrump.

It therefore follows that playing the seven of hearts will, in the long run, prove far more successful than playing the queen.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological forecast for Wednesday, January 17
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Finish rather than begin — stress work, service, ability to streamline procedures. Libra is in picture — and so is another Aries. One who relies upon your judgment has a special request. Grant favor — you'll be repaid, rewarded.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with speculation, getting to heart of matters, new contacts, discovery that your feelings run deep about a "special person." Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. You might meet a very important person.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You get the keys. The doors will open. Security no longer will be a stranger. Aquarius, Cancer, Leo, figure prominently. Individual who was your "teacher" is again available. You will extricate yourself from a very delicate situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hold off on final decisions, avoid direct confrontations. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently. Good news is on the way. You no longer will be restricted. Short trip is on agenda. Message arrives and you'll have green light.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on finances, being aware of details, breaking through red tape. Aquarius, Taurus, Scorpio figure prominently. What had impeded progress is removed. You now have greater freedom — of thought and action. You get accolade — and extra cash.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take lead, assert yourself. Initiate change, travel, variety. Member of opposite sex finds you fascinating and makes no secret of it. Trust yourself — make decisions, new starts, personal appearances and appeals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Low key approach is best — some seclusion can prove beneficial. Keep promise to one who is confined to home or hospital. You're on brink of "good fortune." You can afford to be generous in spirit. Golden Rule now is especially applicable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on wishes, romance, illusion, temporary confinement. Pisces figures prominently. You gain rare insights, but direct action may not be possible. Patience, playing waiting game while information is evaluated, is essential.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Production, authority, civic duty and honor are featured. Yes, you can put reputation on line. You'll be backed by those who have the money to flash green light. Capricorn figures prominently — so does the number 8.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Establish lines of communication. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Streamline procedures. Make contacts necessary for travel, publishing. Aries, Virgo, Libra play roles in your personal scenario. A long-distance call could set wheels in motion.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make fresh effort to imprint style. Deal with Leo. Accent on financial resources, debts incurred by one close to you. Get to heart of matters. Independent stance is necessary for results. No day for lifting heavy objects.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Go slow, check legal papers, be positive concerning commitments, involvement, ties, partnership, cooperative efforts. Follow through on hunch. Regain sense of purpose, direction. Aquarian could prove a vigorous ally.

IF JANUARY 17 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, productive, better when it comes to your own business than working for someone else. You are willing to assume responsibility, to organize — you are capable of bringing priorities into focus. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. Sepember could be your most significant month of 1979, a year to be at least as memorable as 1970. If single, you marry. If married, there is likely to be an addition to family. Married or single, you could be in business for yourself. You are recovering from emotional setback suffered less than six months ago. You meet exciting, creative, inspirational person in February.

HOW TO WRITE

CLASSIFIED ACTION

AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Margaret Giroux and family thank their many relatives and friends for their expressions of sympathy, flowers, donations to the Cancer Society, and other acts of kindness in the loss of a loving husband and father, Henri. Grateful thanks to Doctors Dekker and Chan, the nurses at the West Coast Hospital, and to Rev. Father Sigismund Lajoie for his hospital visits and words of comfort.

I WOULD LIKE TO EXTEND A very special Thank-You to both the day and night shift nurses and staff in the Richmond Pavillion RPI at Royal Jubilee Hospital, for all the kindness you all have shown my late mother, Mrs. Sarah Anderson and myself. Also a special thanks to Dr. J.C. Donald, R.B. Smith and Robert Raines. Thank-You, Dreana Lee and family.

WE WOULD LIKE TO THANK our many friends and relatives for their love and support and the sharing of our grief at the time of the death of our beloved Mac (E.A.) McGowan. Thanks also to the Doctors and Staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, especially those of the Cancer Clinic, for their personal concern and care during Mac's illness. Muffet (Mrs. E.A.) McGowan and Family.

309 IN MEMORIAM

EDWARDS — In loving memory of Roland Michael Edwards, who passed away Jan.15, 1974.
Nothing can ever take away,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him dear.
—Sadly missed Mom and family.

HAWES - Walter, sadly missed by Vi and Reg.
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.

HAWES - In loving memory of my dear husband (Wally) who passed away January 16th, 1978. Gone, but will never be forgotton, wife Florence.

LYTHGOE — In memory of my dearly loved sister, Dr. Leyda Sestrap Lythgoe, who passed away suddenly January 1, 1973.
She never failed to try her best,
Her heart was warm and tender,
She lived her life for those she loved,
And those she loved remember.
—Ever loved, (sister) Olga Sfenwig.

MAWLE — Ernest Wilfred. In loving memory of Dad and Grandpa who passed away January 16, 1978.
—Sadly missed and fondly remembered by those who loved him, Jack, Mavis, Lenny, Shayne and Jamie.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

But Will New Tomato Earn Its Stripes?

Outdoor gardening has been restricted through the first two weeks of January by the frozen soil, so time has been spent studying the 1979 seed catalogs and advance press releases.

New introductions in vegetables are plentiful. One Canadian seed firm which specializes in seed for market gardeners, vegetable farmers, and home gardeners, lists six new tomatoes and 34 new vegetables for 1979, considerably more than in the past few years.

Yet this number is not surprising to those who have followed the hybridizing and selecting programs initiated some ten years ago, one of which was to produce a square tomato which would save space and packing material in standard containers and not be blemished by excessive movement. The last report received stated progress was being made in reaching the desired shape.

This year the great news is a striped tomato, apple green and dark green when young, turning to red and orange when mature.

In these press releases no mention is made of quality and flavor, which to my mind are the most important facts needed by the home gardener.

Located as we are at sea level with our temperatures depending on conditions over the Pacific Ocean, and being on the edge of the B.C. tomato-growing area, we can never be sure the season will be suitable for early ripening of tomatoes, or for good pollination in late May or June.

If we are giving up some of our limited vegetable space to tomatoes, and giving them the time and attention they need, it is important the fruit be a true home garden variety, high in quality, flavor and nutritional value.

Size of the fruit is next in importance to the home gardener. The smaller the fruit the sooner it ripens. Fruits around two inches in diameter have more chance of ripening the whole crop before frost than fruits in the four- to five-inch class.

Early cropping also depends on the growth habit of the variety being grown.

At one time only staking, or vine-type, tomatoes were known. These have to make considerable growth before the first flowers form, and in our climate are limited to four trusses of fruit on each plant to obtain ripening before frost. Considerable time was spent on removing side growths and tying vines to wires or stakes.

We found the bush varieties, when introduced, much better for our conditions. These form the first flowers at the top of a short stem, often before transplanting to the open, and the main crop on side growths that follow. These need no staking, no removal of side growths, no tying to wires or stakes.

The terms "staking" or "bush" have been replaced by "indeterminate" and "determinate" respectively. This change has confused home gardeners, many still pruning the determinate varieties and some leaving the indeterminate unpruned, and the results have been disappointing crops.

Some of the new introductions are said to be immune to blossom-end rot, and environmental disease.

It results from lack of sufficient humus in the soil to hold a steady supply of moisture at the roots. A sudden spurt on growth when conditions are ideal but soil moisture low, causes the plant to take moisture from fruit already formed to supply the growing tips.

Cells suffering from this loss of moisture collapse and eventually form the familiar brown-black leathery ring on the blossom end of the fruit. I am interested in finding out how this condition can be avoided in breeding.

Substitute Inner Ear Offers New Hope

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australian medical researchers have developed a substitute inner ear which they say gives hope of hearing to thousands of totally deaf people.

They say that for the first time, people with nerve deafness — total malfunction of the inner ear preventing them from hearing any sound — will be able to receive speech signals.

The technique involves implanting the substitute ear — a small gold-plated electronic device which researchers call a gold box — in the part of the ear called the mastoid, and connecting it by electrodes to the inner ear.

The gold box then takes over much of the function of the inner ear, which is to convey messages received as sound signals to the brain.

The first successful operation to implant a gold box occurred at the Royal Victorian Eye and Ear Hospital in Melbourne in August, 1978.

The device was inserted into the ear of a man who had been totally deaf since a motor accident 18 months previously.

The patient, Rod Saunders, 47, was selected because, as a hearing person until recently, he had the ability to tell doctors which sounds he could recognize. A person deaf from birth would not be able to do this.

Prof. Graeme Clark, one of the surgeons who implanted the device, says the gold box, which causes the patient little discomfort or disfigurement, was one of two electronic devices which enable the patient to receive sound signals.

"Later a silver box will be used to pick up and analyze sound signals and transmit them to the gold box," he says. "Circuitry in the gold box will disseminate the signals to the inner ear through a system of insulated mini-wires."

Prof. Clark says a silver box has not yet been built, but its functions have been simulated by a computer and Saunders has been able to hear sounds resembling electronic music.

"He could distinguish between different sounds and even recognized the sound of Waltzing Matilda (an Australian folk song) when it was played," Clark says, adding:

"Cost should be no barrier because the implant operation can be performed by an average skilled ear surgeon, and the electronic devices would not be much more expensive than a hearing aid."

Heart Attack From Dust?

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Some deaths from sudden heart attacks may be caused by previously unsuspected allergic reactions to tobacco, pollen and other substances, a Cornell University scientist said Monday.

Dr. Roberto Levi told the American Heart Association's annual science writers' forum that experiments with guinea pigs suggest tissue-destroying myocardial infarction, or heart attacks, may be caused by severe allergic reactions.

Severe allergic reactions, called anaphylaxis, are abrupt disturbances that can result in severe breathing difficulty and collapse of the cardiovascular system.

Levi said that of the thousands who suffer diagnosed anaphylaxis each year in the U.S., between 600 and 800 die. And about one-third of these deaths are caused solely by disruption of the heart and blood vessels.

More important, hypersensitive allergic reactions cause acute irregularities in heartbeat, he said.

A wide variety of things in the environment are known to cause acute allergic reactions. Among these are byproducts of tobacco and cigarette smoke, pollen, dust, insect venoms, foods, drugs, cosmetics and poison ivy.

Levi said it is possible sudden cardiac death among cigarette smokers may result from an acute allergic reaction to tobacco.

He said the animal experiments indicate an allergic reaction causes the heart to release histamines and other substances that act on the parts of the organ that control beating rhythm.

Defence Lawyer Links CIA to Letelier Killing

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A defence lawyer blamed the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) Monday for the murder of exiled former Chilean foreign minister Orlando Letelier.

Paul Goldberger said in an opening statement at the trial of three Cuban exiles on murder and perjury charges that Letelier's murder was carried out by U.S. expatriate Michael Townley, the key government witness in the trial.

"He (Townley) carried it out working for the CIA," Goldberger said.

Townley, who has lived in Chile for the last 20 years, has admitted placing the explosives that killed Letelier, who was a prominent opponent of the Chilean military junta, and Ronni Moffitt, Letelier's American assistant, at the private Institute for Policy Studies.

They died Sept. 26, 1976, when a bomb attached to their car exploded as they were driving along Washington's "Embassy Row."

Townley has agreed to testify for the prosecution in exchange for a lighter sentence and the promise of an early parole.

Salisbury Stalls School Reforms

SALISBURY (Reuter) — More than 100 black children were turned away from three white schools today when their parents tried to enrol them ahead of the official removal of racial discrimination from Rhodesian education.

It was the start of the new white school year but the African parents were told by headmasters that nothing could be done until the state schools receive an integration order from the education ministry.

With enactment of legislation ending discrimination in both education and housing expected in a few days, an education ministry spokesman said that while it is illegal to enrol the youngsters now, the situation will change within two weeks.

Under the new legislation, the children would be entitled to enter the schools if they met certain English language and educational requirements.

White parents interviewed at one school, where the headmaster indicated he had plenty of space due to white emigration, said they had little objection to black children going there.

Fatal End To Chase

SEATTLE (AP) — A 17-year-old youth jailed on two counts of rape and assault, was shot and killed by a corrections officer Monday as he fled from a court appearance, police said.

Jeffrey Allan Green was being transported from jail to court for trial on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The corrections officer chased Green out of the court building, through an alley and along a downtown street, police said, shouting for the prisoner to halt and firing five initial shots which missed Green. The sixth shot hit Green as he neared a busy intersection.

Execution Plea A Ploy: Quebecer

TOOELE, Utah (UPI) — Canadian citizen Walter J. Wood, 40, of Quebec, says his plea to be executed "immediately" on his murder conviction is really a gamble to prove he was railroaded.

Wood said even his defence attorney was part of the conspiracy by attempting to convince the jury to find him guilty of second-degree murder. He claims another defendant was the actual killer.

SAFER MOWER COST JUSTIFIED: U.S. BODY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) staff Monday recommended power lawnmowers be made safer, a move that would raise prices by about $35 per mower but prevent an estimated 60,000 injuries each year.

The proposal, which the five commissioners will vote on later this month, would require walk-behind rotary mowers to be equipped with a system which prevents the blade from revolving unless the user has his hands on the controls.

If the contact is broken, the blade would have to stop within three seconds, either by an automatic shut-off of the engine or through a clutch mechanism which disengages the blade but leaves the motor running. If the motor shut-off is required, the mower would have to be equipped with a power starter.

The proposal would also require mowers to be built in such a way that the human foot would not come in contact with the blade when stuck under the rear or into the chute where the grass is blown out.

William Kitzes, who headed the CPSC staff making the recommendation, told a news conference at least two manufacturers — Honda Motors and Seifert Manufacturing Co., Kiel, Wis. — are already making mowers with clutch mechanisms.

He declined to speculate on which approach the industry would take, noting that the proposed effective date for the new rules is three years away.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute, a trade association, petitioned the CPSC in 1973 for safety rules for power mowers.

Liberals Have First Hopeful

Jev Tothill, adviser on tourism and travel to leader Gordon Gibson, announced he will run as a candidate at the party leadership convention next month.

Gibson, leader since 1957 and the only Liberal in the legislature, said last September he was leaving provincial politics this year.

Party president Shaun Sullivan said Monday he is unaware of any other leadership candidate in the wings, but added he was undismayed at the lack of prospects. There is plenty of time for other challengers to appear, he said.

Worker Hurt In Rail Crash

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A British Columbia Railway employee was injured Monday when two locomotive units collided head-on with a train of six locomotive units and some empty log cars in the rail yard here. B.C. Rail officials were investigating the accident, which occurred at low speed. The workman was in the lead locomotive in two-engine unit. He was taken to hospital for observation.

McEachern Is Sworn In

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan McEachern was sworn in Monday as chief justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court. The ceremony was attended by government officials, all 27 of the court's judges and members of the legal profession.

McEachern, of Vancouver, a lawyer for 28 years, was appointed in late December to fill the post vacated by Nathan Nemetz, who was appointed to the B.C. Appeal Court.

Inmate's Death Ruled Accidental

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — An inquest jury has ruled that the death of Douglas Rattray, 22, of Vancouver, who was killed while trying to escape from the Prince George Regional Correctional Centre, was unnatural and accidental. Rattray and another prisoner made a run for the prison wall Oct. 1. The other prisoner halted when a guard fired a warning shot, but a second shot killed Rattray. The jury recommended a speaker system be installed at the prison, with microphones in the guard towers, and that barbed wire be attached to the prison gates.

Rail Terminal Change Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jack Volrich said Monday he will try to persuade the federal government to change its thinking on where to locate the new Via Rail terminal in Vancouver. Volrich said he believes the Canadian National Railways station, located in the False Creek industrial area, will be chosen as the Via Rail terminal. Both the city of Vancouver and the Greater Vancouver Regional District favor the CP Rail station on Burrard Inlet.

$1,500 Fine in Pot Conspiracy

PENTICTON (CP) — Colleen Light, 19, of Kelowna, was fined $1,500 and sentenced to one day in jail Monday for conspiracy to traffic in marijuana. Light had pleaded guilty Nov. 24. Three other persons were given jail terms Jan. 5 for their part in the conspiracy. Seven other persons charged pleaded not guilty and trial dates have been set for May.

Brandon Trip For Eclipse

Four astronomers laden with University of Victoria scientific equipment will go to the Prairies to view the Feb. 26 eclipse of the sun.

The eclipse will be 98 per cent in Victoria and total in Brandon where the astronomers are headed.

The astronomers are Dr. Jeremy Tatum, UVic physics department, Bob Smith, on sabbatical leave from Butte College in California, and Paul Delaney and Dave Balam, research assistants.

They will travel to Brandon University in a UVic truck to view what will be the last total eclipse visible in North America until 2017.

In Victoria, the 98 per cent eclipse will start at 7:16 a.m. and end at 9:26 a.m.

Viewing the eclipse with the naked eye can be extremely dangerous, even when only a thin crescent remains.

Filters such as smoked glass, overdeveloped film and crossed polaroids still let in dangerous infra-red light. Severe damage to the eyes, even blindness may result.

New Mini-Hostel At Forbidden

A new mini-hostel has been opened at Forbidden Plateau, near Courtenay, by the non-profit Canadian Hostelling Association (CHA).

Close to ski lifts and cross-country ski trails, the hostel will be operated under CHA franchise by the Forbidden Plateau lodge, an association spokesman said Monday.

The cabin sleeps 12 and has what are described as "minimal self-cooking facilities." Overnight accommodation rates are $4 during the winter and $3 during the summer. Group rates are also available.

Hostel association members are entitled to discounts at the lodge restaurant and ski shop, as well as a $1 discount off daily ski rentals.

From the new hostel at Forbidden Plateau the CHA is offering a series of weekend package courses in cross-country skiing, for beginners and novices.

The courses cost $48 without rentals, $10 more with rentals. They include two days' instruction, Friday and Saturday nights' accommodation and all meals.

The cross-country skiing courses are available Jan. 20 and 21; Feb. 17 and 17; March 10 and 11.

TEHRAN MOBS DANCE FOR JOY

Weeping Shah Quits Iran

Times News Services

TEHRAN — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, rejected by his people and defeated by 14 months of violence that brought his country close to anarchy, flew weeping to Egypt today on his way to the United States and probable permanent exile.

The shah's arch foe, the Moslem religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said he would return to Iran from his Paris exile and lead a government to supplant the administration of Premier Shahpour Bakhtiar.

Observers said such a move could lead to new chaos.

In Paris, Khomeini greeted news of the shah's departure with the Islamic rallying cry, "God is great," and said the shah must now abdicate.

"This is a great victory for the Iranian people," he told a packed news conference at his villa in Neauphle-le-Chateau near Paris. "It is the first step in ending 50 years of tyranny and brutality by the Pahlavi dynasty.

"Final victory will come only with the abdication of the dynasty and, even more important, the end of foreign domination."

The 78-year-old leader of the Shiite Moslems of Iran who has lived 15 years in exile, said, "I shall return at th opportune moment."

His aides said Khomeini will remain in France at least until the end of this week.

He also said his government would seize the shah's fortune at home and abroad.

SEVERE QUAKE ROCKS IRAN

United Press International

A severe earthquake rocked northern Iran today, earth monitoring stations around the world reported. There were no immediate damage or casualty reports, but scientists said the jolt could have had serious consequences.

The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said preliminary data indicated the tremor was centred about 60 miles south of Mashhad — an earthquake zone near the point where Iran, Afghanistan and the Soviet Union meet.

The U.S. Geological Survey and earthquake centres in Honolulu and Sweden reported the shock was measured at 6.7 to 6.8 on the open-ended Richter scale. It hit at 1:50 a.m. PST, early afternoon in Iran.

"It was strong enough to cause damage," a geophysicist in Colorado said. "The area is populated and there are chances of injury."

LETTUCE HITS $1 A HEAD

Lettuce prices have hit $1 a head in Victoria but will soon be on the way down, food store managers said today.

"The price is high but lower than at this time last year," one manager said.

"I can recall seeing it as high as $1.19 last January."

Another manager reported the price appears to have peaked and the next change should be down.

In Vancouver, wholesalers reported slightly lower prices for California lettuce and said the savings should soon be passed along at the retail level.

All spokesmen stressed that the price fluctuation is about normal for this time of year. Lettuce prices usually peak in January and are on their way down in February.

GVLRA Rift As CUPE Talks Heat

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

Greater Victoria school board chairman Carol Pickup said today she would like the board to pull out of the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association unless GVLRA manager Carl Anshelm adopts a more positive attitude.

Pickup issued the withdrawal threat as she hammered the GVLRA for being too "abrasive and negative" in its approach to collective bargaining.

Her attack came as the municipal bargaining climate began to heat up with Anshelm applying for a mediator in the GVLRA's contract dispute with a joint bargaining committee, representing five locals of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

Anshelm said the locals are stalling but the charge was flung back at him by another CUPE local, which bargains independently.

Rick Doyle, president of Local 388, representing city inside workers, said today Anshelm is the one who is stalling. Doyle said he will recommend to an executive meeting Wednesday that they apply for a mediator.

Pickup said the GVLRA's approach to collective bargaining is unsatisfactory.

"It's a total anti-union, very abrasive, very negative kind of approach," she said.

She said in her opinion, the school board is not getting good value for the money it costs to belong to the association.

The board cannot opt out of the association during negotiations but she said she would support a motion to do so once a new contract has been ratified.

Pickup said she favors local bargaining where the employer deals directly with the employees rather than negotiate through an independent agency.

6 Starving Horses Perish from Cold

Times News Services

A deep-freeze continues to hold much of B.C. in its grip, sending Monday temperatures to record-tying lows in Prince George, freezing out the water supply in Lytton and claiming the lives of six horses left to starve by residents and unlicensed guides in the Cassiar area.

Provincial conservation officer Brock Bailey said in Cassiar Monday at least 40 more horses are starving after being abandoned in cold weather that sent the thermometer skidding to -37 degrees celsius. He was unable to identify owners because the horses are not branded.

The temperature in Prince George dipped to -41 Sunday, tying a 1953 record and forcing cancellation of snowmobile and sled dog races. Two ski hills closed.

Heating problems closed several schools but none of the closures has lasted more than a day, a spokesman said.

A number of mills have been operating on a shift-by-shift basis and telling workers not to come in when it gets too cold.

A warming trend is expected to raise the temperature to a high of -20 today or Wednesday.

About 1,500 resident of the Fraser Canyon community of Lytton were left without water when a line between two reservoirs froze up. Work crews today had thawed about half the line between a 100,000-gallon reservoir and a smaller one 600 metres away.

Water has been hauled from Lytton Creek to the smaller reservoir, but the water pressure is down to 40 pounds an inch from the usual 100 pounds an inch.

Blizzard Death Toll Climbing

Times News Services

More storms were predicted today as the midwestern United States struggled to cope with hip-deep snow that threatened to disrupt fuel and food supplies.

The storm-related death toll climbed to at least 53. Seventeen deaths have been reported in Chicago, where 10 centimetres of fresh snow fell Monday on the 50 centimetres that strangled the second-largest city in the U.S. on the weekend.

About 600 travellers were stranded at Toronto International Airport Monday after airlines cancelled flights because of the massive U.S. snowstorms.

Most of Chicago's O'Hare Airport, the continent's busiest, remained closed Monday, stranding thousands. Work crews managed to clear one runway and hoped to have a second cleared today.

A storm which moved across Ontario dumping snow and freezing rain on southern and central regions resulted in at least one death.

U.S. weather officials warned there would be at least 10 centimetres more snow to contend with in Chicago today.

POST OFFICE LOUSES LOTO

TORONTO (CP) — The United States post office has clamped down on a disabled California truck driver who wants to buy Loto Canada tickets.

Jay Nagy, 55, of Bellflower, Calif., says he is looking for a Canadian agent to buy the tickets and send them to him in a plain brown envelope.

Nagy said he's been buying lottery tickets for years — 10 tickets a draw at $10 a ticket.

Until last week, that is, when Loto Canada returned his money order with a notice saying the U.S. post office would no longer allow the transactions.

He's had no problem with The Provincial lottery in Manitoba, on which he spends up to $50 a draw.

"They have a plain envelope with a box number on it," he said. "Loto Canada has a beautiful envelope, with big red letters. And that's what the U.S. is screaming about."

A spokesman for the U.S. post office said Monday it is against the law to send lottery material through the mail, even in states where lotteries are legal. They are not legal in California.

A Loto Canada spokesman said the lottery stopped responding to U.S. orders about a month ago "because the Canadian post office got in touch with us.

The spokesman said about $1.5 million worth of Loto Canada tickets are sold in the U.S. annually — a figure he doesn't expect will change much because "many sellers up here who are engaged in foreign sales already put the tickets in plain brown envelopes."

Mail Poser In Puzzle

Seaborne Israeli Raid Hits Lebanon Base

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Seaborne Israeli commandos landed on Lebanon's coast at dawn today and blew up a house Israel said served as a Palestinian guerrilla base.

Accompanying gunboats shelled guerrilla concentrations.

The commandos struck at Ras-el Ain, two miles south of Tyre and 13 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese frontier, an Israeli military spokesman said.

An undetermined number of gunboats shelled guerrilla concentrations after Palestinian gunners fired on the commando force, the spokesman said.

Neither side reported any casualties.

The Israeli strike came three days after an abortive guerrilla attack on the north Israeli town of Maalot, in which three guerrillas were killed by Israeli troops and an Israeli woman died.

But Israel's military command said the commando raid was not a retaliatory measure.

Logging Ban Precedent Set

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Fisheries and Environment Canada has slapped a permanent logging ban on a Queen Charlotte Islands watershed because of fear that cutting could cause slides or severe erosion.

It is the first time that logging has ever been halted for that reason in the Charlottes.

Although the area involved is relatively small, about 50 acres, the ban is seen as a precedent-setting move.

Large areas of the Queen Charlotte Islands are excesively steep and many sites in the South Moresby Wilderness Proposal area have been identified as unstable.

Federal fisheries officer Jim Hart said from his office in Queen Charlotte City today the area closed to logging is on Riley Creek in Rennell Sound, on the west coast of Graham Island.

He said that Q.C. Timber Ltd. has been ordered not to cut a single tree on the site identified by forestry and fisheries experts as unstable.

Hart said most the flat ground has been logged off.

"They're moving into the steep areas a lot now . . . it has us concerned."

Hart said that because of the combination of high rainfall and steep terrain in the Charlottes, it is absolutely necessary to leave timber in some areas.

A 1978 report by the provincial environment ministry states: "It is well documented that forests play an important role in stabilizing slopes and that clear-cutting promotes erosion and landsliding. Observations . . . reveal that this is also true of western Graham Island and undoubtedly for all steeplands in the Queen Charlottes,"

Research has shown that four or five years after a tree has been cut its massive root network disintegrates, and the anchor that has held the soil is removed.

"Certainly there's lots of evidence up here as to what can happen," said Hart.

"We've had some slides and erosion (in the Rennell Sound area) already. Most of it has been directed at the sea but some has occurred in watersheds. In one case a slide flushed right out the creek to the estuary."

FLQers To Trial

Times News Services

MONTREAL — Jacques and Louise Cossette-Trudel waived their right to a preliminary hearing today on charges of kidnapping former British trade commissioner James Cross in October, 1970.

The were sent directly to trial, although a date will not be fixed until March.

The decision to go straight to trial came after more than two hours of private talks between defence lawyer Serge Menard and Crown prosecutor Jean-Pierre Bonin, who summarized the prosecution's evidence for Menard.

Win For Minister

Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm was today awarded $3,500 damages and costs in his libel action against Times Publishers, a division of FP Publications (Western) Ltd., former Victoria Times publisher Stuart Underhill, editor Barbara McLintock and cartoonist Robert Bierman.

The judgment by Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe followed a three-day B.C. Supreme Court trial last week in which Vander Zalm claimed he was libelled by a Bierman cartoon in the June 22 edition of the newspaper.

The reasons for Munroe's findings were not immediately known because copies of his judgment were not available in Victoria.

During the trial the Times said the cartoon was not defamatory but, if it were, then it was fair comment on a matter of public interest. Vander Zalm was minister of human resources at the time.

Hatley Castle Goes Hollywood

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

A FAMILY OF RACCOONS living in a tree behind Hatley Park manor, now part of Royal Roads Military College, knew something unnatural was occurring.

Bright lights had turned night into day and coiled cables and repeated wails from ambulance sirens had disrupted their evening inspection of the garbage cans, usually a quiet routine conducted under cover of darkness.

The raccoons' home had been invaded by a movie crew and they had wandered on to the set.

Several important scenes in The Changeling, a gothic horror film starring George C. Scott, Trish Van Devere and Melvyn Douglas, were shot in and around Hatley Park last week.

The cast and crew of the $7 million Canadian production arrived at the military college Thursday morning and spent three days shooting several important scenes.

Phoney police cars with paste-on decals and state of Washington licence plates and an ambulance were part of a noisy external sequence shot Thursday.

The lawn was tilled into a muddy mess by hundreds of pairs of feet belonging to technicians, prop managers, script supervisors, production consultants, assistant directors, film editors, sound mixers and several excited, autograph-seeking teen-agers.

But Friday the set was as hushed as a hospital ward for the movie's most crucial scene — a confrontation between Scott and Douglas involving five-and-a-half pages of dialogue.

At the insistence of Scott and out of deference to the frail, 77-year-old Douglas, director Peter Medak ordered a closed set.

The film is being made by a independent Canadian company, Chessman-Park productions, (which just finished another Canadian movie called Silent Partners, starring Donald Sutherland and will dissolve after this one is completed), and is financed entirely by Canadian investors.

Most of the supporting cast is Canadian.

About 95 per cent of the 150 crew members are stage and movie technicians recruited from Vancouver, Calgary and Toronto.

Local amateur actors were hired to play neighbors and even some of the staff at the military academy were asked to be extras.

Dunn was in three scenes, including one where he takes Scott's coat.

He said his movie debut was exciting, but not traumatic.

"The crew was very professional, they just told me what to do," while waiting in the wings for his cue.

The film has a tight 50-day shooting schedule.

Several days shooting has already taken place in New York and Seattle where the movie is supposed to take place.

But most of the action will be filmed in Vancouver. A huge false-fronted Victorian manor constructed for $200,000 will be used as home of Scott, a composer who suddenly discovers he's living in a haunted house.

The interior scenes will be shot on an elaborate group of sets built inside West Vancouver's new Panorama Studios.

Vancouver was selected as the movie's main location to take advantage of the area's natural beauty and the federal government's generous tax shelter.

Location manager Rondi Johnson said Hatley Park is perfect as the home of Douglas, who plays an influential U.S. senator implicated in a series of dramatic supernatural events.

The stonework, huge fireplaces and heavy wood panelling convey a sense of power, she said.

An agreement was worked out with armed forces headquarters in Ottawa, a procession of trailers and vans arrived, the generator was set up and the crew unloaded lights and cameras.

The crew started preparing around noon Thursday for two brief scenes. They finished shooting just after midnight.

One sequence, where Douglas is removed from the house on a stretcher and put in an ambulance, will last about 30 seconds in the movie, but took five hours to film.

Each scene was shot using several different camera angles and each camera angle required a lighting change. All the sequences were rehearsed repeatedly using stand-ins until the timing was perfect.

Then the stars emerged from make-up and the cameramen started actual filming.

BETWEEN TAKES, Scott appeared in a faded maroon bathrobe to discuss his scenes with Medak, but didn't talk to anyone else on the set.

Several crew members said Scott didn't like socializing while working on a character and spent most of his spare time going over the script or playing cribbage in his trailer.

There was no sign between scenes of Van Devere or veteran actor Douglas, who was making his first screen appearance in four years.

A member of the production company said Douglas, who made his movie debut 50 years ago as a leading man opposite Gloria Swanson, wasn't feeling well during the shooting.

The company flew back to Vancouver Saturday to continue filming until mid-February.

Hostility of Trustees Boils Over at Meeting

Trustees manned the trenches with undisguised hostility for a bout of name-calling over a change in Camosun College appointments first proposed by new chairman Carol Pickup last week.

During the hour-long feud the chair was challenged twice over alleged conflict of interest and accused of stifling debate.

Reference was made to witchhunts of the 1950s and at one point a trustee compared the meeting to a kindergarten classroom.

But in the end Pickup's proposed appointment changes were approved by a five-four vote.

The board approved the hotly-contested appointments of trustees Dr. Martin Levin and Mary Breer, non-trustee Beryl Young and former trustee Dr. Hal Knight to the college board.

Brice appointed herself, Yorke and Fisher to the college council in December. The appointments were challenged by Pickup, who accused Brice of helping Education Minister Pat McGeer push them through before the new board took office in January.

An amendment substituting Susan Brice for Beryl Young was defeated by the same five-four split.

Yorke twice called for votes of non-confidence and both times Pickup voted to sustain the chair.

A request by Yorke to introduce new information of an "urgent and important nature" affecting the appointments was ruled out of order by Pickup.

"You, madam chairman, as far as I'm concerned, are completely ignoring any free speech. You have ruined any good spirit this board ever had," Yorke charged.

Repeated efforts by Brice, Yorke and Trustee Glyn Williams to introduce new information they said would prove Pickup and vice-chairman Levin had conflicts of interest in connection with the college appointments were ruled out of order.

But Yorke spoke up anyway. He said a conflict of interest that prevented Pickup from sitting on the college board last year still applies and should prevent her from making appointments.

Pickup, whose husband works for Camosun, denied the conflict charge and said she wasn't making the appointments, but submitting names to the board for its approval.

Yorke also charged that appointee Beryl Young is the wife of Levin's boss and should't receive the college position.

Levin, a University of Victoria political science professor, countered by saying Walter Young is chairman of the department, not his employer.

"These unpleasant and insidious accusations are out of keeping with the spirit of the board," Levin said.

"I've seen these tactics used in witchhunts in the '50s. I'd hate to see them imported into the district," he said.

Yorke termed Pickup's limit on debate "abhorrent" and Brice said she was vehemently opposed to the way Pickup was conducting the meeting.

"Trustees should have the opportunity to have all their questions answered whether it takes two nights or 20 nights," Brice said.

A tight-lipped Williams said Pickup's refusal to allow debate on the conflict of interest items was a serious violation of the principles of consultation and free speech.

Fisher said Pickup was "making a mockery of the concept of representation and accountability."

Winfield Mott, silent during most of the battle, commented that the board meeting reminded him of kindergarten.

"When do we get around to talking about education," he asked.

Man Held In Oak Bay Drug Find

The man, in his early 20s, will appear in provincial court.

Police arrested the suspect Monday after a three-hour stake-out of bush near the University of Victoria campus where a cache of drugs was found earlier in the day by an RCMP tracking dog.

Police were called to the area after a UVic security officer spotted two men at 3:20 p.m. Sunday emerging from the bush off Ring Road about 100 feet south of the university directory and stopped them for questioning.

Oak Bay police were called in and the men explained they had been out jogging the day before and lost something in the bush.

A police spokesman said the story was regarded as semi-plausible until it was learned one of the men was a drug taker and had a record of breaking and entering.

The police dog was brought down the next morning and found a package hidden in the bush.

Constable R.W. Jones started a stake-out of the area at 2:30 p.m. and at 5:15 p.m. the suspect returned.

Later in the evening Jones, Constable Barry Parker and two Victoria police detectives went to a house in Esquimalt where they seized about $1,500 worth of jewelry.

Police are now attempting to determine ownership of the jewelry.

TOWN TALK

Teacher Angus Whitmore claims the expansion of Camosun College is going to increase his home heating bills.

Whitmore and his wife Junett last month bought a house on Argyle Avenue, immediately across the road from a property on the college's Lansdowne campus which is proposed for development.

They were initially led to understand that the new building would be about 35 feet tall, but have since learned that ventilation towers at the four corners will be 50 feet high.

In letters to Camosun College Council and Saanich council, the couple claim the structure "like Fort Knox" will tower over their home, shutting out winter sunlight.

"Camosun College would be imposing extra heating costs upon us," Whitmore told Saanich aldermen Monday night.

Council referred the matter to its Advisory Design Panel.

Movie stars don't always dine on champagne and caviar, patrons of Bob's Burgers in Colwood discovered Friday when screen actor George C. Scott strolled in for a bite.

Scott, in Victoria for three days to film a gothic horror movie, The Changeling at Royal Roads Military Academy, was taking a supper break with the cast and crew.

He was accompanied by wife Trish Van Devere and veteran actor Melvyn Douglas, also starring in the movie. They helped themselves to a smorgasbord while awe-struck fans in the next room forgot to finish their hamburgers.

The B.C. director of the TV religous program 100 Huntley Street has denied a claim that cash from the program goes to fund two anti-gay organizations.

Not so, says Frank Funk, in an emphatic denial of a statement by Nancy Goldsberry of the Victoria Female Lesbian Action Group.

Goldsberry said cash from the show went to both the Anita Bryant Crusade and Renaissance International. Both organizations have been vocal in campaigning against full civil rights for homosexuals.

They apparently like the warm feeling of close fellowship that comes when too many bodies are crammed into too small a space.

It's the only possible explanation for the fact that well-attended evening committee meetings continue to be held in a small, poky committee room while the spacious council chamber next door remains in empty darkness.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the finance and legislative committee the body count was 41 (15 aldermen and officials seated at the big table, 23 members of the public and three reporters) — all stuffed into a room about 30 feet by 15.

It was rather reminiscent of a Guinness record attempt, or one of those television commercials where several commuters jammed sweatily together in a tiny car glare at each other accusingly.

What at first appeared to be a local bout of legionnaire's disease surfaced Friday at the centre run for elderly Fernwood residents at 1325 Pembroke by the Fernwood Autumn Glow Society.

Joe Haegert, 77, said first to be smitten was John Bryce, an incentive worker at the centre. Haegert took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Senior citizen Marion Fox was the next to become ill but she got herself to hospital.

Haegert says when other guests began to feel dizzy and faint he suspected a furnace leak and called B.C. Hydro.

'Oh, That's Just the Mayor Counting Parking Spaces'

Mayor Mike Young will visit family restaurants and count parking spaces for the next two weeks to back up a theory he has about how many spaces are necessary in relation to the number of customer seats.

Young delayed a restaurant development proposed for Government and Gorge because there are only 22 parking spaces for the 140-seat restaurant.

Representatives for Bino's, a 24-hour pancake house operation, said research had shown that was all the parking needed to make the operation viable.

But Young didn't believe it and said "I'm going to go out and start counting parking spaces myself."

The proposal will come back before the lands-use committee in two weeks, after the mayor's research is completed.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market, following a decline in New York, was moderately lower in active mid-afternoon trading today.

Among industrials, Dome Petroleum was down 3⅛ to $100⅜, Consumers Distributing 1½ to $9¾, Union Oil of Canada 1 to $23, Texasgulf Inc. ⅞ to $25⅜ and Husky Oil ¾ to $46½.

Metropolitan Trust was up 3 to $35, Pacific Petroleums ¾ to $64⅜, Canadian Tire A ¾ to $27½, Seagram Co. Ltd. ½ to $35⅜ and John Labatt A ¼ to $22¼.

Roman Corp. lost ½ to $28, United Siscoe mines ¼ to $9¼ andf Kerr Addison Mines A ¼ to $12⅞. Dome Mines gained 2 to $92 and Dickenson Mines ⅝ to $7⅝.

Numac Oil and Gas declined 1¼ to $28¾, Amalgamated Bonanza Petroleum ¾ to $28¾ and Canadian Homestead Oils ½ to $11⅞. Canadian Hidrogas Resources Ltd. advanced 25 cents to $4.60 and Merland Explorations ¼ to $10.

New York

Analysts said some traders who had been waiting for a rise in stock prices to do some selling decided that the market had gone far enough.

Brokers said the market also might have been unsettled by evidence of further credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve Board in recent days. Hopes for a letup in the rise of interest rates have been cited as one factorin the market's recent strength.

Du Pont dropped 4⅜ to $139⅝ in active trading. The stock soared 11¾ points Monday when the company announced plans for a 3-for-1 stock split, reported sharply higher fourth quarter earnings and raised its dividend.

McGraw-Hill rose ⅛ to $33⅝. American Express said it would proceed with a $34-a-share offer for the company, despite McGraw-Hill's vehement opposition to the takeover bid.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices moved broadly down with all leading indices posting declines in moderate afternoon trading at the Montreal Stock Exchange. The 85-stock composite index dipped 0.29 to 233.22. Volume at 2 p.m. EST was 334,000 shares, down from the 340,431 shares traded up to the same time Monday. Brascan A led losers, down ⅜ at $19⅜. Inco fell ¼ at $20¾, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ at $54⅝, Alcan ⅜ at $42⅛ and Norcen Energy Resources ⅛ at $18⅛.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The London stock market was mixed near the close of light trading today, overshadowed by strikes of rail and road-haulage workers. The Financial Times index fell 2.3 to 480.5. Banks and gold shares firmed but industrials declined. Canadian issues were little changed.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prices were down in moderately-active trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Volume to 10:52 a.m. was 1,491,781 shares.

In the industrials, Great National led trading, unchanged at .59 on 2,000 shares, Taro was unchanged at $3.10 on 1,200, Grouse Mountain was unchanged at .85 on 1,000 and Pacific Northern Gas was unchanged at $5 on 1,000. Balco was off ½ at $10½ and Northwest Sports was unchanged at $3.75.
